Educational Center And Working Farm Opening In Annapolis

JAYNE SEBRIGHT
Lancaster Farming Staff

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — In the heart of the Chesapeake Bay watershed, a 575-acre working dairy farm will be used to educate urbanites about agriculture and its role in supplying food and preserving the environment.

Horizon Dairy, an organic milk processor, purchased the farm from the Naval Academy, which ran the farm for the past 100 years to supply its midshipmen with fresh milk and dairy products.

At peak production, the Navy milked 400 cows in the dairy facilities. About 60 employees packaged, processed, and sent the milk to various Navy bases. Two years ago, the cows were sold and the farm was put on market when the Navy decided farming wasn't part of its mission.

At the same time, Horizon Dairy was looking for a facility to use as an educational farm.

This 575-acre farm was purchased by the Naval Academy in the early 1900s to provide healthier milk to its midshipmen. At its peak, the dairy facilities housed 400 - 500 cows. Now Horizon Dairy plans to re-open the dairy facilities and eventually milk about 300 cows, raise organic crops, and invite the public to the farm to educate them about agriculture.

Jan Stanton, manager of the farm and educational center, has been working closely with designers to develop an interactive, educational center that will teach children about agriculture and where food comes from. The center will be housed in one of the existing barns. Photos by Jayne Sebright

Tribute To Dairy Month Next Week

June is dairy month. In next week's issue, the Lancaster Farming will pay tribute to the men and women involved in the dairy industry. Look for feature stories on dairy producers from all over Pennsylvania, recipes using real dairy products, and columns reviewing trends in the dairy industry. It's sure to be "dairy-delightful."

ANDY ANDREWS

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — "There is money in our business, but we're not getting our fair share of it," said John Q. Adams, representative of the newly formed Pork America Cooperative, at a meeting here Monday evening.

Adams was referring to the hog industry, which suffered its worst depression a couple of years ago yet is beginning to recover in a big way.

The East Coast in particular, noted Adams, is ripe for a packer/processor. We have adequate production to support additional packing capacity, he noted.

Adams spoke to about two dozen swine producers and agri-industry representatives at a special meeting at the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture building.

Adams outlined some proposed plans for the newly formed cooperative.

The cooperative is aware of the many opportunities in the wake of a rapidly changing industry.

Adams said that last June, at the Pork Expo, a task force from the National Pork Producers Council (NPPC) met to study the possibility of a new cooperative for producers. A task force met last November in which 60 people, representing 20 million hogs, met in Des Moines, Iowa, to create an interim board.

The mission of the co-op: capture increased value for the producer by marketing pork, rather than hogs.

"That's what we envision," said Adams. "We've got to move into the value-added part of it.

"We're designing a profit-oriented business," he said. "Early on we may have to pool market hogs as a stepping stone to move to the meat, working with existing players in the chain to accomplish our goals."

Finding those direct, niche markets is key for many indus-

CATTLE: Compared to Tuesday, slaughter steers sold steady to .50 lower. Sales started out mostly steady, but the market never found bottom side support and slowly faded to end the week 1.00-1.50 lower. Holstein steer prices were .50-1.00 lower and slaughter heifers sold 1.50-2.00 lower than the last good test, which was a week ago. Slaughter cows sold 1.50-2.00 lower as packers work on a reduced holiday schedule. Slaughter bulls traded steady.

Supply included 46 percent slaughter steers and 32 percent slaughter cows.

SLAUGHTER STEERS: High Choice and Prime 2-4 1170-1450 lbs 72.60-75.25. Choice 2-3 1120-1455 lbs 71.00-73.75; 1475-1580 lbs 67.75-70.50. Select and low Choice 2-3 1060-1490 lbs 66.25-71.50; 1540-1580 lbs 64.50-66.75. Select 1-3 1040-1470 lbs 63.75-68.00, package returning to feed 1045 lbs 71.10.

CALVES: Compared to Monday's auction, the vealer market was active but there was not a comparison from Monday's light calf run. Slaughter calves sold unevenly steady. Buyers aggressively bid on Holstein bulls to return to feed and prices improved 35.00-40.00. The Holstein heifer market continued steady. Supply included 334 head in the state graded sale and 93 pct returned to feed.

VEALERS: Standard and Good 70-100 lbs 43.00-60.00, few up to 70.00. Utility 60-85 lbs 35.00-45.00.

CATTLE: Compared to last week's closing prices, slaughter steers closed 1.00- 1.50 lower. Losses came progressively over the week, with the lightest demand on Thursday. A reduced holiday schedule for packers weighed heavily on all slaughter classes late in the week. Limited Western trade through Friday morning was mostly 2.00 lower at 69.00-69.50 live and as much as 4.00 lower dressed from 110.00-111.00. Post-holiday beef demand will tell whether the cattle market is merely correcting itself or if we are in for much lower prices for the summer. Many analysts project the latter; but feedlots are very current and with the start of barbecue season, consumer demand for beef is the best it has been for 20 years. Local Holstein steers ended the week 1.00-2.00 lower and heifers closed 1.50-2.00 lower. Slaughter cows finished mostly 1.50 lower with late-week losses and slaughter bulls ended steady to 1.00 lower. Supply included 46 percent slaughter steers, 7 percent slaughter heifers, 35 percent slaughter cows, 5 percent slaughter bulls, with the balance feeders.

ATTENTION DAIRYMEN

LANCO Dairy Farms Co-Op Inc. is now a marketing division of Allied Federated Co-Op's of Caton, New York. We Would Like To Ask You These Questions: Are you tired of...

1. Mega-Merger's and Consolidations?
2. Lower Milk Prices?
3. Supporting High Debt Load Co-Op's with Your Farm's Milk Check As Their Banks Equity?
4. Paying High Salaried Executives & Directors?

Let Us Show You How You And Your Neighbors Can Put A Load Of Milk Together And Market Through Lanco! And Gain A Higher Bottom Line. Our Markets Are Wide Open And Waiting To Take Your Milk At A Higher Premium Than You Receive Now. Find Out Why Other Processors Are Calling Us For More Milk And Are Looking For Better Choices To Feel More Secure With A Local Milk Supply. The Processing Industry Is Not Happy Either.

PASTURE WALK

TUE. JUNE 6 at 1 P.M. D.S.T.

Come see our products growing in the fields.

Green Spirit and BG-34 Ryegrass, as well as Alfalfa, Hakari Brome, Orchardgrass, Timothy and more. We expect to have some well established Sorghum Sudan, Turnips, and Forage Soybeans.

One of the topics for discussion will be milk yield per acre.

Mark Rehak and Ron Dodds (agronomists and C.C.A.) will be here to help answer questions.

We will demonstate the Reese mower and Baar's Irrigation System.

IS YOUR GRASS GONE TO HEADS?

Try B.G. 34 RYEGRASS! NO HEADS in sight as of May 24, 2000!! Has already yielded 6000 lbs. high energy high protein pasture on a dry matter intake basis. For seed and how to manage BG-34 RYEGRASS PASTURE contact Aaron King Seeds.

Eastern Region Frozen Eggs

ATLANTA, GA.
MAY 19, 2000

EASTERN REGION FROZEN EGGS, MAY 19, 2000. FEDERAL-STATE

Majority prices on yolks were unchanged, balance of other items were lower and higher when compared to last week's values. Offerings were usually reported as adequate on yolks and irregular on balance. Interest improved but new trading was still somewhat slow. The undertone was mixed. Liquid and frozen eggs (ingredients included) processed under federal inspection in the Eastern region for the week ending May 13, 2000 were unchanged from last week, and 5 % less than a year ago. Shell egg suppliers were fully adequate for current needs.

Daily National Grain Market Summary

St. Joseph, MO
Wed May 24, 2000

USDA-MO Dept Ag Market News

Daily National Grain Market Summary

Profit taking and rainy weather conditions pressured grain and soybean bids. Wheat 2 to 3 cents lower. Corn steady to 3 cents lower. Sorghum 6 cents lower. Soybeans 4 to 7 cents lower.

Wheat bids fell slightly lower as profit taking set in on the Board, today. Rain has been reported in some of the heading/milking wheat areas the past couple of days, pushing bids lower. Light overnight export sales to Japan limited declines in wheat.

Corn and soybean bids were weaker due to rains in the central US.

Talks of drought have been eased somewhat as forecasts continued to call for moisture. Some profit taking was also noted in bean pits as traders prepare for the long holiday weekend. Export demand remains slow for corn and beans.

The Old Farmer's Almanac This Week With

NEW MOON, JUNE 2.

THE RIGHT TO VOTE

Strange as it may seem today, until June 2, 1924, Native Americans born in this country were not granted citizenship. That changed with a vote by Congress in 1924, but even then, many Native Americans did not gain the right to vote for another two decades or more. Voting rights were a matter of state law, and some states—Maine, for example—did not grant voting rights to Native Americans until 1948.

Native Americans might have had the right to vote within their tribal settlements, but statewide elections were closed to them. Even as the schools established for Native American children pushed assimilation, burying much of the culture and lore of Native American families, the greatest American institution of all—the vote—was withheld.

Politics is applesauce.

–Will Rogers

TIP OF THE WEEK

APPLE BREAD

1/2 cup butter
1 cup sugar
1 egg, beaten
1 cup chopped, peeled apples
1/2 cup chopped dates
1/4 cup chopped nuts
2 cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup sour milk (or add 1/2 teaspoon vinegar to regular milk)

Cream together butter and sugar and beat until light. Add egg and blend, then stir in fruit and nuts. Combine dry ingredients, and add alternately with milk. Pour into a greased loaf pan and bake in a preheated 350°F oven for about an hour.

Makes 1 loaf.

The Old Farmer's Weather Proverbs

The more thunder in May, the less in August and September.

A dry May and a leaking June/ Make the farmer whistle a merry tune.

Look at your corn in May, And you will come weeping away; Look at the same in June, And you'll come home in another tune.

WB95PZ Zimmerman Water Bowl

The Unlimited Water Supply For Your Cows!

Low maintenance noncorrosive Delrin valve is self cleaning & simple to operate!

Now you can give your cows the water they need to produce more milk. With the Zimmerman Water Bowl, you can do it at no extra cost!

The bowls are designed to comply with known federal and local requirements when installed properly.*

Cows are not designed to push a paddle when they need a drink This unique watering system provides a continuous supply of fresh water in the way nature intended cows to drink. With a large capacity, fast recovery and a guarantee against breakage, the Zimmerman Water Bowl will revolutionize the way you water your herd

*All bottom fill bowls require that approved back flow prevention devices be installed in potable water supply lines

Install in new or remodeled facilities or in most existing barns on manger or stall side!

- 12" in diameter & 8" deep.
- 3 gallon capacity- 6 times that of other bowls!
- Fast recovery- 3 gallons per minute at 40 psi.
- PVC construction- guaranteed unbreakable, inhibits bacterial growth.
- With nonrestrictive splash guard.
- Cleaner- water fill located at bottom.
- Bottom drain- for easy cleaning.
- Adjustable water level.

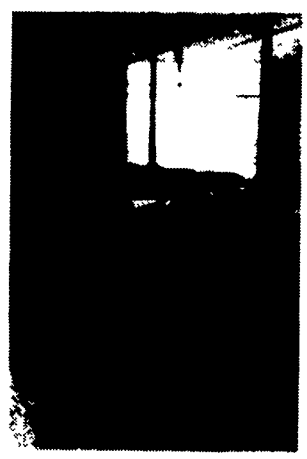
MORE WATER MEANS MORE MILK...NATURALLY!

Heavy duty steel clamp & mounting bracket totally supports bowl.



Two Coat Process!

Added Value With Our 2 Coat Process!
1 Five step metal preparation, including iron phosphate conversion coating, to enhance adhesion & prevent undercoat corrosion
2 Zinc rich epoxy powder undercoat
3 TGIC polyester powder top coat, baked at 400° to fuse costs, forming a cross link molecular bond

OPINION

Landowners, Farmers, Foresters: Be Wary Of EPA Proposal

The recent record growth in the economy of the United States could come to a crashing half if an Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) proposal that would more stringently monitor water systems is allowed to go into effect.

The federal agency is seeking to aggressively enforce a portion of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act that would severely hamper agriculture and silviculture (forestry), and place an undue financial burden on many private property owners.

There are numerous reasons why the Pennsylvania State Grange, an agricultural, rural and community service organization with over 25,000 members across the state, is adamantly opposed to this initiative.

As part of the Clean Water Act, which became law in 1972, such activities as farming, animal production, timber harvesting, etc., have been considered as nonpoint sources of pollution while point sources were historically limited to industrial sites, which usually contain pipe sources of discharge.

Now, EPA is attempting to reverse this process by reclassifying silvicultural activities and agricultural production as point sources. Point sources are required to obtain a prescriptive National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (NPDES) permit which can cost up to $10,000.

Private property could also be considered as a point source since the reclassification included "anywhere that rain falls". Such a broad-based definition would include rooftops, driveways, shopping centers, highways, parking areas, gardens and lawns.

For nearly 30 years the agency did not implement the provision known as Total Maximum Daily Loads (TMDLs) — and for good reason. It is bad policy that could potentially cost landowners in Pennsylvania over $1 billion a year in permit and legal fees and other costs. In fact, in 1990 EPA admitted such permits "would not be productive and would be cost prohibitive".

Prohibitive and burdensome costs, however, aren't the only negative aspect of the permit process. Permits could be subject to delays or refusals. They require public comment and many times include statements of unsubstantiated public opposition. They expose landowners to harassment and private litigation. Even if a permit is approved, it can be challenged by unscientifically based environmental groups of private entities.

Obviously the cost and liabilities incurred through the permit process will be a disincentive for landowners to maintain their properties in an agricultural or forested state — which is the exact opposite of farmland and forest preservation efforts across the Commonwealth. Soil conservation programs, Best Management Practices and other environmental initiatives used by farmers and foresters clearly demonstrate their willingness to preserve our natural resources.

The vast majority of farmers and foresters are good stewards of the land. They realize the economic gains of preserving the very land they till or forests they harvest. When will the policy makers who are far removed from the fields and forests of our great nation embrace this logical concept?

Finally, the Grange backs the death of this reclassification because it would snatch the regulatory process out of the hands of individual states (currently administered most effectively by the Department of Environmental Protection in Pennsylvania) and drop it squarely in the lap of EPA without any input from Congress. It is a scary notion — and sets a dangerous precedent — when a government agency can thumb its nose at lawmakers and set policy as it pleases.

It isn't too late, however, for concerned citizens to voice their opposition to this rule. Two public meetings are being held in the month of June to gather information as part of EPA's public comment period. On Thursday, June 8, a meeting is scheduled for The Casino at Lakemont Park in Altoona, Blair County, while a second meeting will be held on Thursday, June 15, at the Berks County Agricultural Center in Leesport. Both meetings, where residents can speak out against this rule, begin at 7 p.m.

If concerned citizens are unable to attend either of these meetings, they can still write or call their federal legislators and voice their opinion. Residents are also encouraged to ask their legislators to endorse and fast track efforts before Congress that would delay implementation of the reclassification of nonpoint sources and require a study on: the scientific basis underlying the development and implementation of TMDLs; costs of implementing measures to comply with such loads; the availability of alternative programs or mechanisms to reduce the discharge of pollutants from point sources and nonpoint source pollution to achieve water quality standards.

If these efforts are unsuccessful, the rule could be in effect by the end of June 2000.

As we approach the celebration of our Independence Day in early July, we may very well feel the erosion of our personal freedoms as we ask ourselves the inescapable question, "What's next?"

To Look At Wire Spacing

For effective animal control, wire spacing is more important than fence height, reports Chester Hughes, Lancaster County extension livestock agent.

More animals go through and under fences than over them. Proper wire spacing makes your fences more effective.

Regardless of how many wires your fence has, always position one wire at the shoulder height of the animal to be controlled. This is the "nose wire" that your animals see and touch when they approach the fence. Other fence wires should be spaced according to the type of animal: 10-12 inches apart for cattle and horses and 6-8 inches apart for sheep and goats. The bottom wires should be closer together than the top wires.

Fences taller than 48 inches are not really necessary. In many countries, livestock fences are seldom over 42 inches tall. Electric fences maybe even lower: 36 inches for cattle and horses and 30 inches for sheep and goats. Shorter fences also allow closer wire spacing.

To Ground Electric Fences

When utilizing electric fences, you cannot have too many ground rods, according to Chester Hughes, Lancaster County extension livestock agent. Sometimes one ground rod will work, but three are better.

When an animal touches the fence, the electricity must travel through the animal into the soil, then through the soil to a ground rod. The electricity then travels from the ground rod to the fence charger where the circuit is completed. Only then does the animal feel the shock. Therefore, the more ground rods, the more electricity gets back to the fence charger.

That is why the best ground system consists of three galvanized ground rods, at least six feet deep in the soil and spaced 10 feet apart. For best results, install your ground rods where soil moisture is constant. Always use clamps to attach the ground wire to the ground rod. Remember, your electric fence is only as good as its ground system.

To Know Child Labor Laws

An Oregon newspaper recently reported that a grass seed farmer was likely to be fined $375,000 for multiple state and federal child labor law violations.

More than $50,000 of the fine being proposed was for farm safety violations of the "Youth Hazardous Occupational Order." This order prohibits people younger than age 16 to perform many hazardous jobs on the farm, including driving tractors, operating machinery, working in confined places, and several other activities.

If you employ young people on your farm, it would be a good idea to familiarize yourself with this child labor law. Agricultural Engineering Fact Sheet E31, available at your Penn State Cooperative Extension office, provides additional details about this law.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

HOME ON A BROKEN WING

Background Scripture:
2 Corinthians 13:1-13.
Devotional Reading:
Acts 4:32-37.

Some years ago I received a letter from a man with whom I had once served on the board of a religious organization.

When I saw his name on the envelope, I was surprised because, doing our years of joint service, the man had been quite antagonistic toward me.

The contents of the letter, however, were even more surprising, for he told me that in reviewing his life he realized that he had been unfair to me and asked for my forgiveness. Whatever my previous estimation of him had been, I now greatly admired his sincere repentance. It is something all too rare.

A short time after I responded to him, he died, and I couldn't help thinking of William L. Sullivan's classic remark: "There is in repentance this beautiful mystery — that we may fly faster home on broken wing."

The world is filled with conflict and the churches have their share and perhaps even more. Several large Protestant denominations are facing the prospect of permanent division over a host of issues, the most prominent being the place of avowed homosexuals in the life of the church. Unlike the secular world, it appears that the churches are slow to acknowledge and face these conflicts and they are sometimes castigated for this perceived "weakness."

WEAKNESS OR STRENGTH? There is Biblical precedence for that perception of "weakness." From Paul's two letters to Corinth, we can piece together a hazy picture of the conflict Paul experienced there. In 2 Cor. 13 we find Paul facing a crisis. Some intruders have entered the Corinthian congregation and incited the people there to an arrogant attitude. These intruders not only have attacked Paul and his apostleship, they have arrogantly refused all his requests to cease and desist. Their immoral behavior has been blatant and defiant.

We may gather from what Paul writes that there have been some criticisms from Corinthian Christians concerning his handling of the crisis. Paul has been accused of weakness. Some of the Corinthian Christians have contrasted his lack of power with the power of the Spirit bestowed upon people in the Corinthian church.

Paul obviously still hopes the problem can be handled without stern measures, but his letter makes it clear that he is prepared to act vigorously and powerfully if they do not grasp this last chance to repent. "I warned those who sinned before and all the others, and I warn them now while absent, as I did when present on my second visit, that if I come again I will ill not spare them. . . " (13:2). He is hoping that this strong warning will lead them to repent before he comes.

FOR BUILDING UP. Some of Paul's critics will probably receive this letter with disappointment and criticism. They don't want to give the intruders still another chance. But the patience of love which Paul describes in 1 Corinthians 13, while it appears as "weakness," is really the "strength" of love.

Impatience to condemn and punish is weakness but love requires all the strength we have. Paul's is the "authority which the Lord has given me for building up and not for tearing down" (13:10). Paul is aware that some of the Corinthians are obsessed with finding fault in Paul, but he warns them that they had best "Examine yourselves, to see whether you are holding to your faith. Test yourselves" (13:5). If they are looking for someone's weaknesses to pounce on, let them look in a mirror and examine themselves.

What the mirror demands from us is not pride and judgmentalism, but humility and repentance. Lady Mary Wortley Montagu wrote to her daughter, "It is eleven years since I have seen my face or my figure in a glass. The last reflection I saw was so disagreeable that I resolved to spare myself such mortification in the future." We cannot afford to let so much time pass until we examine ourselves and are moved, not to judge, but to repent — and "fly home on a broken wing."

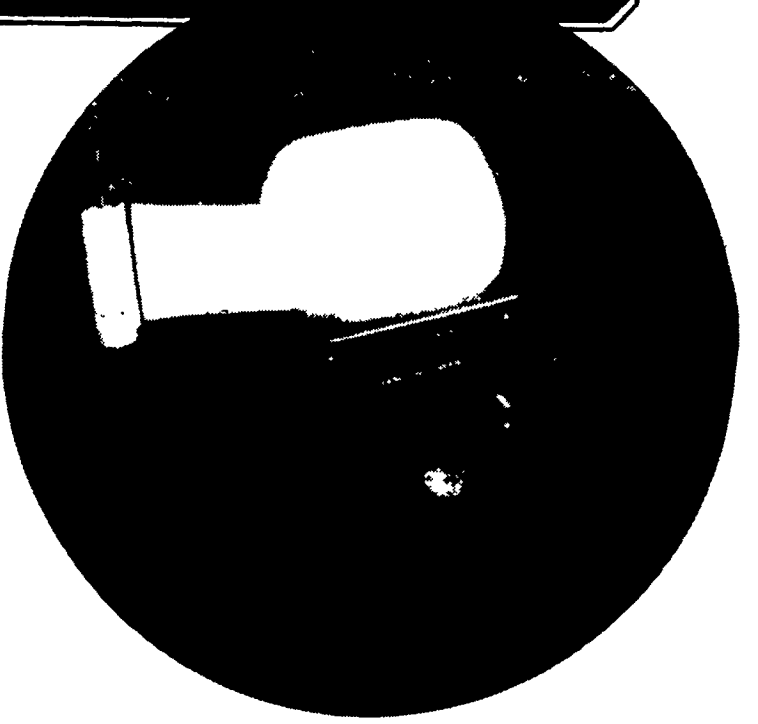
TANCO AUTOWRAP

THE WRAPPER THAT WRAPS BALES OTHERS WON'T



A complete range of Round, Square & Rectangular Wrappers.

Patented advantages like the unique "Deep Cradle" continuous full width belt, and fully supported turntable where four polyurethane wheels provide Tanco's renowned even and balanced operation, even with overweight and misshapen bales. Quality wrapping and quality machines that has made Tanco among the World's leading manufacturers.

It takes a quality product to do quality work.

TUBE-LINE BALEWRAPPER

For optimum speed and efficiency patented Tube-Line Wrappers are the answer! Tube-Line Wrappers wrap a continuous row of bales. The airtight application of stretch wrap film retains moisture balance as haylage matures and prevents air infiltration. The shrink wrap also prevents wind damage and accommodates variation in bale size and shape without air gaps.

Long stem silage is better used in the animals digestive system. Feeding high quality haylage from wrapped bales can reduce or eliminate feeding grain while retaining or increasing weight gains or milk production.

Tube-Line wrappers for all round bales or large square bales are available in either manual or fully automatic models.

Nutra-Flo
FOLIAR PLANT FOOD
...the Yield Booster!

Completely Safe, Will Not Burn Plants

Nutra-Flo "foliar plant food" is completely safe for foliar application.

- made from 100% orthophosphate
- chloride-free
- 100% water soluble
- crystal clear, water-white liquid
- low-salt index
- neutral pH

Improves Soybean, Corn & Alfalfa Yields

Research shows foliar feeding boosts maturity, quality and yield. Plants get an immediate source of N-P-K when soil nutrients are unavailable. Large applications of nitrogen, high organic matter, high or low pH, dry conditions, excess moisture, extreme heat or cold can reduce macro or micronutrient availability.

CROP	BENEFITS OF FOLIAR PLANT FOOD	YIELD INCREASE
Soybeans	• Improves and increases pod set • Hastens maturity	Up to 12 bu/A
Corn	• Higher test weight • Drier corn at harvest	Up to 9 bu/A
Alfalfa	• Increased protein quality • Hastens maturity	Up to 4 ton/A

Easy to Apply with Post-Emerge Chemicals

Nutra-Flo foliar plant food can be piggy-backed with most insecticide and herbicide applications. It meets Monsanto's strict compatibility specifications for combining liquid N-P-K with Roundup® Ultra for application on Roundup Ready® soybeans.

Foliar Application Guidelines

CROP	FIRST APPLICATION	SECOND APPLICATION	AMOUNT FOR EACH APPLICATION
Soybeans	4th to 6th leaf trifoliate	60 to 80% pod set	3 to 6 gals/A
Corn	3 to 5 leaf collar	10 to 15 days before tassel	3 to 6 gals/A
Alfalfa	4 to 6 days after each cutting		3 to 6 gals/A

Lower Costs, Higher Yields

SAVE Up to 25%

Nutra-Flo foliar plant food costs less. You'll enjoy these other economic benefits when you foliar apply Nutra-Flo plant food:

- Higher profits
- High energy
- Faster maturity
- Drier crops at harvest
- Higher protein levels
- Better nutrient uptake
- Increased disease resistance
- More drought resistance
- Increased root growth
- No application costs when you combine with post-emerge chemicals

Weekly Dairy Market Outlook

By Ken Bailey
Penn State University
May 19, 2000

April Milk Production up 3.7 Percent

-April milk for 20 states was 12.4 bil lbs=20
-Cow numbers continue to increase
-CME announced new Class IV contract
-Fed announces raise hike

After months of bad news it's good to have something positive to say. We planted corn in Pennsylvania about three weeks ago and have hoped for rain ever since The Northeast is still struggling to regain subsoil moisture lost to last years devastating drought. We had a temporary respite; this morning the rains came!

USDA announced this week that April milk production for 20-select states totaled 12.4 billion pounds, up 3.7 percent from these same states a year ago. Production per cow in April averaged 1,598 pounds, 44 pounds higher than a year ago. And the number of cows on farms continued to increase.

Cow numbers for 20-select states totaled 7.79 million head, 66,000 head more than April 1999 and 12,000 head more than March 2000.

The states with the highest production gains in April were as follows: Indiana (13.5%), Idaho (11.9%), New Mexico (10.0%), Kentucky (8.7%), Virginia (6.2%), California (6.1%), Ohio (5.7%), Arizona (4.7%), Vermont (4.4%), and Pennsylvania (2.9%). All but one of the top-10 states for milk production growth were above the 20-state average of 3.7 percent.

States with the lowest milk production growth rates for April were Michigan and Florida (0%), Minnesota (0.7 %), New York (0.8%), Wisconsin (0.9%), Missouri and Washington (1.5%), and Texas (1.7%).

The Chicago Mercantile Exchange announced that they would begin trading Class IV futures and options contracts later in the summer (http://www.cme.com/news/00-70milk.html). This is very good news for the dairy industry since it will provide better coverage for dairy producers that want to protect their milk price.

"We are adding Class IV milk contracts to complement the dairy products currently traded on the CME," said Tim Brennan, CME Board member and Chairman of the Agricultural Products Oversight Committee. "These contracts will provide a valuable hedging tool for dairy producers and processors."

Up until now, most dairy producers and buyers/users of milk had two contracts to deal with price risk: the Class III contract (the old BFP contract) and a butter contract. The Class III contract was popular for dairy farmers since three out of four class prices under federal orders varied with the Class III contract. The butter contract had some following, but it was cash settled and that made some people nervous. What would a dairy farmer or an ice cream maker do with a truckload of neatly wrapped boxes of butter?

The popularity of the Class III contract became uncertain January 1 due to the new changes in federal order reform. In fact, everything changed. The Class III price continued to move with the cheese price. But the Class IV price moves with the butter price since nonfat dry milk prices are at support levels. And, the Class II price moves with the Class IV price.

The Class I price is the tricky one; in some months it will move with the Class IV price, in others the Class III price.

For dairy producers that are in federal orders with high Class I, II, and IV uses, the new Class IV contract will be a valuable tool. I can see dairy farmers using both contracts (Class III and IV) each month depending on the percent milk use in their order. For more information on the Class IV contract and how it will work, see the chat room transcript at the Downes-O'Neill website (http://www.dairy.nu/).

And finally, the Federal Reserve this week raised short-term interest rates by a half a point. This rate hike will result in higher interest costs to consumers who up until now have been charging up everything on their credit cards and contributing to a strong U.S. economic expansion. The problem is, however, that all that growth was leading to signs of inflation. The Fed wanted to get ahead of inflation and decided on a half point increase rather than their usual quarter point increase. This move can be viewed as both good and bad news for dairy farmers. Higher interest rates and a slow down in consumption of dairy products is obviously bad. But inflation is very very bad! More interest rate hikes could be possible down the road if signs of inflation continue

USDA Proposes Fee Increase For Laboratory Services

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The USDA will propose raising current fees and adding new fees for laboratory testing services for agricultural commodities.

The increase is needed to strengthen the program's operating reserve and to alleviate the increased costs associated with analytical testing services.

The proposal will raise all tests listed in the fee schedule by 24.1 percent. In addition, the hourly rate for analyses not listed in the fee schedule will increase from $36.26 to $45.00.

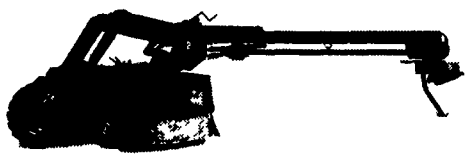
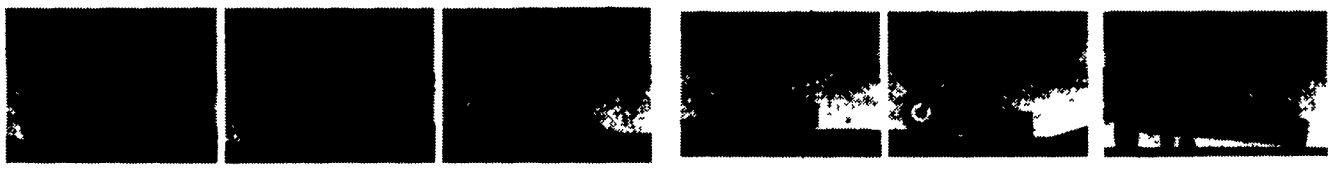
VICON'S KMR Trailed Mower Conditioners

A superb cut with excellent conditioning performance. Available in 7'10", 9'2", 10', 10'6" and 12'6" widths, Vicon is once again "Bringing Technology down to earth."



- Full swivel hitch - PTO stays in alignment when cutting square corners.
- "Free Float" suspension system - With 16" of free stroke in operating position, the cutterbar follows uneven ground and clears obstacles. The center hinge point also permits the mower unit to raise or lower at either side without adding excess pressure on the opposite side. The high-lift design gives swath clearance at headlands.



* Wedge shaped cutterbar - Less ground resistance, eliminates "bulldozing" in soft ground conditions, and allows for a lower cutting height when needed.
* 3 Blades per disc - Vicon's patented design puts 1/3 less load on each blade and an even load on the drive train.
* Top service hubs on cutterbar - Easy Maintenance.
* Labyrinth seals - A specially designed labyrinth seal on the hub of each disc prevents dirt, moisture, and all foreign material from entering.
* Full protected cutterbar - Cutterbar is supported completely with an extra shell and additional wear strips. A reinforcement rod stiffens the cutterbar to prevent flexing.
* Segmented intermeshing fully adjustable conditioning rolls.
* Adjustable formed swath doors for fluffy, easy to pick-up windrows.

Pork Cooperative

tries, including swine.

Right now the co-op is looking for a CEO and is in the middle of its foundation membership drive, Adams said. The board includes nine directors, including six producer-members and three from the outside.

The bylaws have been written to begin seeking membership in the top 25 states. Pennsylvania has already been approved.

The co-op offers different types of membership, Adams noted:

• Regular membership for producers who bear the risk of production. This will allow producers to sell hogs and pork through the cooperative.

• Associate membership. This can include a nonproducer, swine organization, or producer-related council, such as the Pennsylvania Pork Producers Cooperative (PPPC), already a member.

Memberships cost $500. Cost to market hogs is 10 cents per hog, with a minimum of 5,000 hogs.

Costs of hog registration are $500 for 5,000 head, $1,000 for 10,000 head, and $2,500 for 25,000 head. Hog registration does not commit a producer to participate in the co-op.

The co-op may have to rely on existing processors to deliver the hogs in a certain region on a custom basis and fabricate the products according to specifications.

Members so far represent several million hogs per year.

Pork America has more members with hogs than they can move meat, noted Adams. But the opportunities are presenting themselves, he noted, and the cooperative needs membership money to give them negotiating power.

Foundation memberships offer a "first crack," noted Adams, at market opportunities.

Slaughter has been a low-margin business. But the changing face of the business — with some companies leaving the business entirely and others restructuring — leaves room for a producer cooperative such as Pork America to start and thrive.

"It's called demand, it's called opportunity," Adams said.

• Smithfield, at number 1, holds 20.6 percent of all hog processing in the country. They own their own hogs.

• Number 2 hog processor, IBP, holds 17.8 percent. Pork America can capture some independent business as restructuring and repositioning take place.

• Number 3, Swift, at 10.1 percent and 4, Excel, at 9.9 percent, have no plants on the East Coast. And some may not stay in the packing business because of low margins.

The future for hog farmers is to be part of an integrated, coordinated, or aligned system, it work."

Adams said the cooperative is "trying to change the way we do things. In the future, we have to be able to learn how to be in an integrated or coordinated system to survive and prosper. That's what we're trying to create here — a coordinated system."

For more information about Pork America, contact Adams at (252) 568-1147 or e-mail at patadams@greene.k12.nc.us.

Learning To Market New York's Summer Tree Fruits

GENEVA, N.Y. — Diversifying apple orchards in the Northeast by increasing plantings of summer fruits such as peaches, plums, cherries, and nectarines was the focus of attention at the Second New York Stone Fruit School March 13-14 in Geneva, N.Y.

With the apple business doing so poorly and the outlook not too bright, apple growers are taking a new look at stone fruit," said Jim Bittner, who farms 500 acres of fruit along Lake Ontario. "On most of these apple farms, stone fruits were a bigger part of the operation 50 years ago than they are today."

No new apple plantings are planned in the near future at Singer Farms where Bittner is a partner. Current apple acreage is 200 acres. "It has gotten to the point where anyone can grow apples and prices show it," said Bittner. "We need to grow things that others can't or won't. Stone fruit fits there."

Bittner is planting many new summer fruit varieties in test blocks on the farm, hoping to capitalize on his proximity to urban markets, and convince consumers that summer fruit from local growers is riper when picked and tastes better than fruit shipped in from far away. "It takes work," said Bittner. "Our problem is that New York consumers don't know that we exist."

First among the many questions to be asked about growing stone fruit concerns marketing strategy. "When did you last attend a two-day meeting that had a full day devoted to marketing?" asked Steve Clarke, Milton, N.Y., grower.

Clarke, Bittner and the 80 other industry people, researchers and Cornell Cooperative Extension educators who attended the school talked first about marketing, followed by cultural topics: site selection, new varieties, pest control, and high-density orchard training systems.

"The tone of the meeting was very upbeat," said co-organizer Robert Andersen, Cornell University professor of horticultural sciences who directs the stone fruit breeding program at the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station in Geneva. "In two days, we had over 22 presentations — an expanded format from the first meeting two years ago. Growers had the opportunity to make business contacts with marketers and many creative ideas were exchanged."

Determine Your Markets Before You Plant

Wen-Fei Uva, senior extension associate in horticultural product marketing in Cornell's department of Agricultural Resource and Managerial Economics on the Ithaca campus, organized the marketing program. It featured growers, brokers, processors in Ontario and New York, and Cornell specialists.

In her talk, Uva outlined stone fruit facts and industry trends in New York as well as per capita consumption trends for stone fruit crops in the USA. Michael Roznye from Red Tomato addressed grower optimism about market proximity in the Northeast, and described what his company does to link farmers to wholesalers.

Riper, better tasting fruit from New York orchards should gain market share in eastern chain stores, especially if growers combine quality assurance standards with new varieties having unique flavors and improved consumer popularity.

The other buzz is "region, region, region." The new Northeast Stone Fruit Sponsors industry association expects to take a pro-active role in engendering regional cooperation rather than local competition among neighbors.

Planting For Yield And Quality

In the horticultural sessions organized by Andersen on Tuesday, Stephen A. Hoying, CCE leader of the Lake Ontario Fruit Team, talked about getting orchards off to a good start.

"Summer fruit trees are not as tough as apple trees. For successful stone fruit plantings, growers should plan several years in advance," he said. Summer fruit growers must know the climatic characteristics of their sites and pay special attention to susceptibility to spring frost and minimum winter temperatures. They must also investigate their soils thoroughly because wet soils have low oxygen levels. Modifications are necessary in most New York soils through tile draining and/or ridging and by choosing the appropriate rootstock for the site.

The role of IPM was well covered by Peter Shearer from Rutgers University, one of four new faculty members hired to work on strengthening stone fruit production in southern Jersey. He showed that ground cover management is the key to controlling insects like thrips and tarnished plant bugs that cause bad surface blemishes. In the case of damage caused by the larval stage of the Oriental fruit moth, Shearer presented considerable data about achieving biological control with sex pheromones. Rotating controls and using them at the lowest possible rates can inhibit pest tolerance to chemical controls.

Plum Pox Virus (PPV) was another hot topic. This new scare has surfaced for the first time in New York. Virus survey activities by the New York State Plum Pox Task Force were outlined by David Rosenberger, superintendent of the Hudson Valley Lab in Highland, N.Y. This task force includes the New York State Department of Ag and Markets (NYSDAM), Cornell faculty, CCE educators, growers and USDA regulators.

Deputy Commissioner Rick Zimmerman represented NYSDAM at the school. Recently, all New York tree fruit growers received PPV information from NYSDAM Commissioner Rudgers that describes the disease and the New York survey activities for controlling it.

Rosenberger also reviewed control recommendations for common diseases of stone fruits. "Some diseases can be avoided by selection of resistant cultivars and by isolating new plantings from sources of disease inoculum," he said.

Genetically Engineered Vegetables: Are They Worth It?

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Are genetically engineered vegetables environmentally friendly or ecologically threatening? Future foods or frankenfoods? The key to preventing starvation in Third World countries? Good business? Stupid science? Sustainable? Unsustainable?

These and other questions were addressed in a four-hour forum held Feb. 7 during the New York State (NYS) Vegetable Growers Association annual conference.

The event, which organizers believe was the first to address the GMO (genetically modified organism) issue in a grower setting, was attended by more than 100 growers, processors, and agricultural scientists.

The six presenters at the Becker 2000 Forum offered multiple perspectives on the topic: "Genetically Engineered Vegetables: Are They Worth It?" The six included two genetic plant breeders from Cornell University, a seed company representative for the controversial Bt sweet corn, a vegetable processor who has decided to drop Bt corn from its 2000 line, a consumer advocate, and a crop production researcher concerned about trade policies.

"The goal of the forum was to educate growers about the potential risk and benefits of genetically engineered crops in their planting and marketing schemes, help increase their understanding of the basic science and technologies involved, and increase their ability to answer questions from concerned consumers," said Anu Rangarajan, a statewide specialist in fresh market vegetable production, and Cornell University professor of vegetable science, who organized and moderated the forum.

U.S. farmers have been placed squarely in the middle of the debate between seed dealers, chemical companies, American trade policy, and foreign and domestic consumers on the GMO issue. A recent survey conducted by the American Corn Growers Association indicated a significant reduction in the acreages of Roundup Ready corn, Bt corn, and Roundup Ready soybeans being planned for the 2000 season, largely because of consumer concerns. Currently, there are only two commercially available genetically engineered vegetables: Bt sweet corn and a virus resistant squash.

Steve Kresovich, who is a Cornell plant breeder and director of the Institute of Genomic Diversity, talked about scientific and environmental considerations. "His explanation of conventional breeding versus genetic engineering, was most valuable to me," said one grower. "I didn't realize how many intentional and unintentional consequences they were in both types of breeding."

Dennis Gonsalves, plant pathologist at Cornell's New York State Agricultural Experiment Station, in Geneva, N.Y., who is responsible for the commercialization of two virus resistant crops in the U.S. — papaya and squash — outlined the 15-year project that led to the revitalization of the papaya industry in Hawaii. "Through the introduction of genetically engineered papaya that is resistant to the papaya ringspot virus, farmers whose livelihoods were ruined have now been able to replant," said Gonsalves. "If you ask them if this is a successful technology, they and their families will say 'yes'."

Michael Hansen, of the Consumers Union, was an advocate for caution and incredulity on the part of the consumer. "In the U.S., at least, there is virtually no regulation of genetically engineered crops on the part of the FDA, the EPA and the USDA," said Hansen. According to Hansen, health risks included transfer of toxins, allergens, antibiotic resistance, and a change in nutrient levels — many of which are unintentional and untested risks. He advocated mandatory labeling so consumers can decide for themselves which products to buy.

Tom Facer, of Agrilink Foods, outlined the processor's decision to drop Bt sweet corn from their product line in 2000. "It's not that the technology doesn't work,"he said, citing as an example the state of Georgia,

High-density orchard systems are of particular interest to growers whose key objective is earlier cropping and higher early yields. Terence Robinson, Cornell professor of horticultural sciences who specializes in training systems for fruit trees at the Experiment Station in Geneva, addressed whether or not orchard systems are adaptable to particular crops and, if so, the labor efficiencies and pest control that can be gained. Robinson and colleagues are trying out six new sweet cherry experiments at Geneva designed to keep trees small and get them to bear earlier. Rain-induced fruit cracking and bird damage could be drastically reduced by covering small trees with frames, nets and retractable plastic covers.

In talking about stone fruit diversification, Andersen said there is a keen interest in high-density cherries among New York fruit growers because — like prune plums — fresh sweet cherries are particularly healthful. He described "nutriceutical" as a term that will dictate marketing the medical benefits of plants, especially fruits and vegetables.

Peaches suffer from declining per capita consumption because they arrive on New York tables from distant states too green to ripen with really good taste. "Locally grown fresh peaches can be picked riper and will achieve full taste," said Andersen.

Processed peaches have also declined in consumption, but New York-grown processing peaches are gaining attention from Canadian and New York-based processors because of new varieties being bred for Eastern North American climates. High-density peach orchards can produce fruit earlier and with higher yields. Locally processed means reduced transportation costs — an important factor to consider when raw fruit represents only 20 percent of the final cost.

More Research Is Needed

Bittner, chairman of the Northeast Stone Fruit Sponsors, spoke for many of those present, noting much work needs to be done to support stone fruit research.

"The Northeast Stone Fruit Sponsors must find a way to fund the research that needs to be done to make the growing of stone fruits in the Northeast a profitable option for growers. Some options include membership dues, grants, an industry checkoff, and the licensing of plant patents and trademarks that returns funds to research programs. Once funds are collected, a program similar to the Apple Research and Development Board would be set up to select and fund grower-identified research projects."

News Conference On Local Ozone Pollution Friday

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection (DEP), in cooperation with Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences and the American Lung Association, will conduct a news conference on ozone pollution at Penn State's new ozone monitoring station on the University Park campus, Friday, May 26, at 11 a.m. The public is invited to attend.

To support "Pennsylvania Ozone Awareness Week," a representative from the American Lung Association will talk about ozone-related health effects; an air quality program manager from DEP will discuss ozone regulations and standards; and Jon Ferdinand, Penn State research assistant at the Environmental Resource Research Institute, will discuss the new monitoring station and research on how ozone affects forests conducted by the college's "Forest Effects Program" headed by John Skelly, professor of plant pathology. The event will conclude with a question and answer session.

"Ozone is one of the most significant air contaminants in the world," says Dave Aldenderfer, manager of DEP's Air Quality Program. "It's a serious air pollutant and health threat in Pennsylvania."

The ozone season runs from April until October. DEP issues Ozone Action Alerts when levels become high enough to be harmful in urban areas, encouraging people with pulmonary problems such as asthma and emphysema to stay inside.

According to Ferdinand, Penn State's new monitoring station — located at the future site of the Arboretum at Penn State — is the first real-time ozone monitoring system in State College.

Readings are taken hourly and reported directly to DEP's Web site at www.dep.state.pa.us.

where 10-12 pesticide sprays are usually required to get a no-worm corn crop. "In 1999, we grew 1,000 acres of Bt corn in 1999 with no spray," he said. But the monarch butterfly study at Cornell is a hot-button topic with consumers, and the unknown fall-out from the controversial subject with consumers does not justify the risk of producing GMO varieties in 2000 while conventional pest control measures are available.

Mark Mason, Bt sweet corn product manager for Novartis, which sells Attribute (Bt) corn, presented convincing numbers on the GMO's efficacy. "Consumers are not very well informed," he said. "Fears are more easily communicated than the facts." Novartis will continue to study effective insect management strategies, including the use of GMOs.

Ann Clark, professor of pasture and grazing management in the Department of Plant Agriculture at the University of Guelph, spoke about the impact of biotechnology on the marketing of agricultural crops. There are two opposing visions, she said. "On the one hand, industry proponents foresee a bright and boundless future, once consumers come to their senses. On the other, the international banking community, food industry, other governments and the Rockefeller Foundation foresee a much diminished future because consumer concerns are here to stay." Her concern is that "farmers are being misled into believing that genuine concerns about ecological and food safety risks of transgenic crops are just trade barriers and hysteria."

Her advice? "This is not the year to grow GM crops," she said. "This is a technology that has been brought prematurely to market."

PA Milk Dealers And New York Dairy Foods Host Joint Annual Convention

JAYNE SEBRIGHT
Lancaster Farming Staff

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — About 170 representatives from processing plants and dairies throughout New York and Pennsylvania were charged with the message to remain united in preserving the dairy industry during the 13th Annual Combined Convention of the Pennsylvania Milk Dealers Association and New York State Dairy Foods, Inc.

The two-day convention was held at the Hershey Lodge and Convention Center earlier this week. Two business sessions held on Monday and Tuesday mornings featured speakers from various aspects of the dairy industry.

On Tuesday morning, speakers included Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture Samuel Hayes, Jr., Penn State dairy economist Ken Bailey, and Federal Order No. 1 Assistant Market Administrator David Walker.

Preserving natural resources that fuel the dairy industry was the number one challenge that Secretary Hayes cited for processors in the 21st century.

Hayes also challenged the audience that the dairy industry must become better at marketing.

"For years, food and fiber have been essential so we haven't had to be as competitive," said Hayes. "But the ag industry, especially the beverage segment, is being challenged by competitors."

Hayes told processors not to hide their light under a bushel. "We have a calling beyond our day-to-day tasks to promote our industry," said Hayes. "If we do not have a strong agriculture industry, we will not have a strong economy or a strong state. We have to volunteer our time to become missionaries for agriculture."

David Walker, assistant market administrator for Federal Milk Order No. 1, spoke about federal order reform. "The good news is that we have gotten through the first four pools under the new system and we haven't turned off the lights yet."

According to Walker, they found out in November that the federal orders would be consoli-

Speakers at the Tuesday morning session of the Joint Annual Convention were from left Bill Fitchett, president of New York State Dairy Foods, Inc.; Ken Bailey, associate professor of economics at Penn State; David Walker, assistant market administrator for Federal Milk Order No. 1; and Samuel Hayes, Jr., Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture.

"There's no doubt that if we want the dairy industry to continue to be as vibrant as it has been, we need to have the natural resources it depends on," said Hayes. "Farms and cows are being threatened here in Pennsylvania. That's why we have adopted a very good public policy to preserve our state's farms."

Hayes also emphasized that water would be an endangered resource in the 21st century.

"We have to have an abundant amount of water to produce milk," said Hayes. "Preserving these natural resources will be a gripping issue for agriculture in the 21st century."

Hayes encouraged processors to work closely with producers to preserve their right to farm.

"Farmers need to have the opportunity and right to farm," said Hayes. "For whatever reasons, everyday conditions are challenging those opportunities. We must ban together and be united in preserving the ag enterprise. If one segment of the industry is being challenged, then all segments are being challenged."

According to Hayes, consumers enjoy a very inexpensive food supply. Farmers must have the opportunity to profit from that food supply.

"Farming should not be a nonprofit business," said Hayes. "Profits invites people to enter and stay in the industry. The well spring of our progress starts with men and women having the opportunity to make a profit from their hard work on the farm."

Question: Since January the protein payment tests from our milk plant were lower than DHIA test. I know that this is due to a change in payment tests to true protein as mandated by federal milk marketing orders. Now our DHIA and milk plant protein test is the same. Would you explain?

I received a half dozen or so calls recently concerning this. On May 1, 2000 all DHIA organizations across the country made a switch to true protein testing and reporting. In Pennsylvania those dairy producers that opted for MUN testing had the true protein as well as crude reported since 1995 That has changed and now only true protein will be reported to stay abreast of milk payment testing.

Dairy producers that are slow to adapt to this new thinking behind true protein, can still think in more traditional terms by applying this formula to the newly reported true protein values.

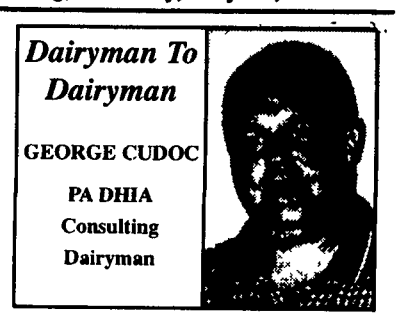
True Protein % (TP%) + .19% = Crude Protein% (past traditional protein)

In time this will be thought of as in the past and nobody will need to think of conversions. The move became necessary so that uniformity between DHIA management information and income determination would get back on track.

The use of component information in the past to troubleshoot certain problems will have to be adjusted a bit to fit with the new numbers. For instance, Holstein cows are thought to be normal at 3.6% fat and 3.1% protein. We also believe the ratio between the two to be 85 to 88% (3.1 / 3 6 = 86%). I guess if we are to stay consistent in this thinking, Holsteins will now be normal at 3.6% fat and 2.91% protein (3.1 - .19 = 2.91). This would change the comparison ratio to 79 to 83%.

Another tool we use in determining normal nutritional function is to look at fat-protein inversions. A herd that would have 30% inversions (%fat<=%protein) in the old way of reporting will look much better if we think of protein in the old way. Theoretically, this herd could have anywhere from 0 to 30 % inversions just by the new testing and not changing the need to adapt to change. We often management. On the average most herds will see a decrease in inversions due to the reporting of true protein by 20 to 30%. This particular herd with true protein used changed to a total of 22% inversions which is a 26.7% reduction ((30 - 22 = 8)/ 30x100)= 26.7 The best way to deal with this is to stay with conventional thinking and change the inversion formula to (%fat<=(%protein+ 19)). Now a cow with a 3.2 % fat and a 3.01 % protein would be considered an inversion.

Changes are inevitable in our lives. This is one example of the ask our cows to make changes It is now up to us to change our thinking about protein testing and what the new numbers that we will be seeing mean. In the meantime, convert if you must, six months from now it will be second nature



Junior Judging School Deadline Approaching

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Pennsylvania Junior Holsteins Judging Schools will be held in July 10 - 11 and July 12 - 13. The Association encourages juniors to sign up soon.

The Western school will be on Monday, July 10, and Tuesday, July 11, from 12 NOON to 12 NOON. It will be hosted by the Mercers County Holstein Club and taught by Steve Moff from Columbiana, OH.

The Eastern school will be hosted by the Susquehanna County Club on Wednesday, July 12, and Thursday, July 13, from 12 NOON to 12 NOON. Matthew Day from Shippensburg will be teaching the school.

Both schools are open to all youth interested in learning about dairy cattle judging. Teachers will cover the basics of animal evaluation and reason giving. Individuals who attend will have the opportunity to learn terminology, animal and class breakdowns, and how to effectively give reasons.

The cost of the school is $25 for those staying overnight, which includes school costs, hotel room, and evening meal. For commuters, the cost is $15, which covers the school costs and evening meals.

This year, a second member of the same family who attends will receive $5.00 off of their registration cost.

For more information, contact the Pennsylvania Holstein Association at 839 Benner Pike in State College. Call (814) 234-0364 or fax (814) 234-1698. The deadline for entries is June 26, 2000.

So the company began leasing the buildings and the land from the Navy.

"This farm will have two purposes now," said Jan Stanton, who is the farm and education center manager for the Horizon Organic Dairy Annapolis facility. "The first purpose will be to have a productive farm and sell the crops and milk. The second will be to educate school children and families about the role of agriculture and its impact on the Chesapeake Bay."

This spring, Stanton came on board to oversee the development of a large education center that will include hands-on activities to teach children about organic agriculture and agriculture in general.

"It's very exciting creating something like this from scratch," said Stanton. "No where in the nation is there anything like this — a working farm that will also be an educational center. We are going to teach people that farmers are the original stewards of the land, and we will be able to show everyone first-hand the entire process of farming."

In the education center will be exhibits about crop rotation, soil composition, the milking process, pesticides and fertilizers, and other aspects of farming. Opening in September, the education center will be housed in one of the existing dairy barns. School groups are already scheduled to tour the facilities.

"We are going to have meeting rooms for community groups, milking demonstrations and guided tours for families and school groups, and a retail store where people can buy items centered around the farm," said Stanton. "I have already visited a lot of community groups to present the education center concept."

Since Stanton's background is in nutrition education and marketing, she is depending on the crop manager and two other employees to manage the 575 acres of crops.

"We are very fortunate that three of the farmers who worked for the Naval Academy stayed on after Horizon took over," she said. "The one was born here, and the other two have worked on the farm for 23 years, so they have lots of farming experience."

Still the three farm employees have a challenge ahead of them because they are in the process of converting the farm to organic. "Next year we will have our first crop grown on organic soil," said Stanton. "The rest of the farm will be totally converted to organic by 2002."

On the farm, they will raise rye, alfalfa, barley, corn, and soybeans. The crops from the Navy farm will used to supply Horizon Dairy's milking herd located in Kennedyville, Md.

Converting the farm to organic won't be too difficult because the land has been very well cared for. "The Navy has always been very ecologically aware," said Stanton. "They have won awards for their no-till farming and for conserving the soils."

After the education center is up and running, Stanton plans to bring in 30 cows to use primarily for education purposes. They'll be milked on one side of the existing double-four milking parlor while the other side will be modified into a viewing area for visitors. Eventually the plans are to build the herd back up to 300 to 500 cows so that the farm can ship a tanker load of milk each day.

In addition to the farm employees, other employees are working to develop the education center and retail store operation. "We're planning to have a snack bar and picnic pavilion so people can make a day of their visit to the farm," said Stanton.

Placed in a setting of scenic trees and acres of fields, you would never know that the Navy farm is located within an hour from Baltimore, Annapolis, and Washington D.C. The location will make it ideal for reaching the urban community.

"We want to connect people to the animals and the plants," said Stanton. "Children really need this type of education because they are so far removed from the farm."

Stanton is working closely with the Maryland State Superintendent of Science and an educational consultant to make sure that all of Maryland's education standards are incorporated into the center. "We want to transfer the farm into a place where people can learn."

The Anne Arundel 4-H Club has housed its 4-H dairy projects at the Navy farm for several years. Soon these animals will be joined by a few dairy cows that will be used to demonstrate the milking process to visitors. Then, within a few years, around 300 more cows will be brought in to reopen the commercial dairy facilities originally built by the Naval Academy.

4-H kids from Anne Arundel County have been learning on the farm for several years. The Navy opened up its barns to the Anne Arundel Dairy Club's 4-H projects several years ago.

The animals are leased by the 4-Hers and housed in one of the barns. Now Horizon Dairy will renovate one of the front barns into a showcase facility to house the pampered 4-H animals.

"Our goal is to really involve people in agriculture and teach them about its importance," said Stanton. "I have always felt that farmers are taken for granted, and this is an opportunity to teach people who would not have exposure to farming elsewhere."

"The center and the entire farm will be a wonderful showcase for all of agriculture, not just organic, because we are teaching people about where their food comes from," she

Pennsylvania To Host National Brown Swiss Convention

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co) — Join fellow Brown Swiss breeders as they "Moove Into A New Millennium" during the 2000 National Brown Swiss Convention on July 12 - 15 at the Harrisburg Hilton in Harrisburg.

"Mooving Into A New Millennium" is more than just a title of this year's convention. It is the theme for the four-day event, as conventions are kept busy throughout their stay.

Golfing, farm visits, tours, inspirational speakers, buffets, and social events are all part of this year's convention, which culminates with the 2000 National Sale at the Pennsylvania Farm Show Complex on Saturday, July. 15. The sale begins at 8 a.m. and will feature high quality Brown Swiss consignments. A complete schedule of the convention is outlined below.

Remember to register by June 10 to receive the earlybird special hotel and pre-registration rates. Don't miss your chance to Moover into the New Millennium with the Pennsylvania and National Brown Swiss Associations.

The cost of the convention package is $90 for adults and $60 for youth who pre-register. Avoid the $30 late fee and register by June 10.

Hotel reservations before June 10 are $89 per night. Reservations increase to $179 per night, subject to availability, after that date. Return the registration form below before the June 10 deadline.

During the past eight years, Pennsylvania has used pheromone lures to monitor for the three "worm" pests of sweet corn: European corn borer, corn earworm, and the fall armyworm. Traditionally, this information has been available via telephone (1-800-PEN-NIPM) or fax-back reporting.

Proper monitoring allows growers to increase spray frequency when populations are high and decrease spray frequency when populations are low. Using trap counts to adjust spray frequency often results in fewer total sprays, offering a benefit in both dollar savings on pesticide and time saved by not spraying.

Using maps to illustrate regional pest pressure has many advantages over telephone or fax-back reporting. Maps enable intuitive comparisons of trap counts. This regional view benefits all participants by increasing awareness of nearby pest densities.

For example, the fall armyworm and corn earworm immigrate into Pennsylvania from the south. Maps from the 1999 season illustrate that before these pests immigrate into Pennsylvania, their densities increase in Delaware and Maryland. This provides Pennsylvania growers with a two-week warning before serious immigration of these pests occur in Pennsylvania.

A website to display maps of the pheromone trap captures was launched last year with good results. One hundred farms in four states Delaware, Maryland, New York and Pennsylvania participated. The Website providing maps of the trap captures was accessed approximately 1,200 times during the season.

The Website provides access to both current and historical pheromone and blacklight trap captures and includes information on integrated pest management (IPM). Data is reported in a buffer point format with larger circles representing higher moth captures. Clicking on any of the capture points links to a time series for that pest at that location. Users can also access the time series for all pests at a given location.

The sweetcorn pest monitoring website can be accessed at http://www.ento.psu.edu/vegetable/sweetcorn/

If you access the site now, you will see maps for 1999. The last map created at the end of the season in 1999 will be the default. Try going to earlier dates to see more valuable information. For example, go to the CEW maps from Aug. 14, 1999 to Sept. 11, 1999 to see the major CEW immigration in 1999. Use the scroll bar on the left-hand side of the web page to choose maps. We anticipate new maps from the 2000 growing season to be coming on-line in early to mid-June.

The 2000 growing season will see an increased number of trapping locations, the addition of European corn borer phenology and improvements to the resources materials. New Jersey is joining the regional trap catch program, and new sites are being added in Pennsylvania, which will increase the total trap sites to approximately 215.

Phenology modeling (predicting the time of occurrence of specific life stages based on accumulated degree days) for the European corn borer will help provide advanced warning on the timing of both first and second generation European cornborer flight. The phenology models will be included with the time series. Resource materials have been developed with the goal of improving access to IPM information.

Many of the resources developed as part of this project were formerly only accessible through the county extension office. For example the Pennsylvania commercial vegetable production recom- mendations, a ten-dollar purchase at the county extension office will also be available online at no cost.

Following are some additional resources available from this site:

- Vegetable insect pest sheets: Penn States pest sheets for vegetable insect pests found in Pennsylvania.
- Vegetable Gazette on-line: An on-line version of the popular horticultural magazine. This link includes access to back issues.
- IPM references: Some of the best and most recent IPM guides available.
- CDMS: A privately held corporation which provides pesticide labels and MSDA for most agricultural chemicals.

These educational resources along with the sweetcorn trapping network are accessible from the following site: http://www.ento.psu.edu/vegetable/

If you are interested in being involved in the trap capture program or have ideas as to how we can improve these resources, contact me, Chris Harding, at cxh402@psu.edu.

Managing Nutrients And Pathogens From Animal Agriculture Proceedings Now Available

ITHACA, N.Y. — Managing Nutrients and Pathogens from Animal Agriculture, NRAES-130 ($30.00 plus S&H/sales tax; 508 pages; March 2000), documents recent research, field experience, and government response concerning the interaction of animal agriculture and the environment in eastern North America.

The proceedings from "Managing Nutrients and Pathogens from Animal Agriculture: A Conference for Nutrient Management Consultants, Extension Educators, and Producer Advisors," held March 28-30, 2000, in Camp Hill, Pennsylvania, the publication includes 36 papers divided among eleven topic areas. Authors include experts from the land grant universities, the Agricultural Research Service (ARS), the Natural Resource Conservation Service (NRCS), the EPA, and the private sector.

Two introductory papers consider nutrients and water quality and sources of nutrients in the nation's watersheds. The three articles in the following section discuss aspects of animal agriculture and nutrients. Papers in the third section consider EPA and NRCS goals in nutrient management. The two following papers discuss ag-related waterborne pathogens and sources of pathogens in a watershed.

Five papers focus on manure management practices. Papers in the following section discuss feed management to reduce excess nutrients in poultry, swine, and dairy production. The next two papers consider the fate of land-applied nutrients and pathogens. Three papers are devoted to the Phosphorus Index, and the following two sections include papers on aspects of land application and site management.

The final four papers discuss nutrient management plans for poultry, swine, and dairy operations. A complete table of contents listing paper titles and authors can be found on the NRAES web site (see the address below).

Managing Nutrients and Pathogens from Animal Agriculture, NRAES-130, is available for $30.00 per copy, plus shipping and handling and sales tax, from NRAES, Cooperative Extension, 152-Riley-Robb Hall, Ithaca, NY 14853-5701. Shipping and handling for a single copy is $5.50 within the continental United States. New York State residents add eight percent sales tax (calculated on both the cost of publications and shipping and handling charges).

If ordering more than one book or if ordering from outside the United States, contact NRAES for shipping rates. Orders from outside the United States must be prepared in U.S. funds. All major credit cards are accepted, and checks should be made payable to NRAES. For more information or a free copy of our publications catalog, contact NRAES by phone at (607) 255-7654, by fax at (607) 254-8770, or by e-mail at NRAES@CORNELL.EDU. Northeast SARE Announces 2000 Research, Education Grant Awards

BURLINGTON, Vt. — The Northeast Region Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education (SARE) Program has awarded $1.69 million to 16 research, education, and professional development projects that will promote profitable and environmentally sound farming practices.

As in the past, SARE's 2000 projects are quite diverse, including topics such as alternative pest management for horticultural crops, market-oriented beef and sheep production, and efforts to spur consumer demand for local products.

"The common thread through all these projects is a focus on delivering practical information producers can use to improve profitability, stewardship of natural resources, and quality of life," said Fred Magdoff, coordinator of the Northeast SARE Program.

This year was one of the most competitive ever for Northeast SARE. The 16 projects were selected from 84 proposals by diverse panels of researchers, educators, extension staff, farmers, and representatives of nonprofits, government, and agribusiness.

Northeast SARE awarded about $1.26 million to 11 research and education projects. Among them are three innovative livestock projects that will address key barriers to sustainable beef, sheep, and dairy production. These projects were selected through a special initiative emphasizing farm-level impact.

"We are expanding this approach to the entire Northeast SARE Program," said Magdoff. "By emphasizing concrete and verifiable impacts, we will assure that projects are even more relevant to producers' needs."

Also funded this year are several projects that will advance alternative and biologically based management approaches for apple, cranberry, and vegetable production systems, and a group of market-oriented projects aimed at connecting producers directly with consumers, institutions, and restaurants.

Additionally, Northeast SARE awarded $434,105 to five professional development projects. These projects will educate cooperative extension staff and other farm advisors on pasture-based livestock systems, agricultural easements, agriforestry, organic grain production, and the needs of small farmers in the region.

Cider Workshop Updates Producers On Safe Processing Methods, Pending Regulations

GENEVA, N.Y. — When food scientists at Cornell University's New York State (NYS) Agricultural Experiment Station in Geneva planned a workshop on "Approved Processing Options for Safe Apple Cider Production" Feb. 17, they thought low attendance might be a problem.

As it turned out, Randy Worobo and Olga Padilla-Zakour had to extend the workshop a second day to accommodate the nearly 70 producers who signed up.

"The workshop was intended to be a hands-on demonstration of proper sanitation steps at each point in the apple cider production as well as the different processing options currently available to cider marketers to ensure a safe and wholesome product," said Worobo, who helped test the recently approved ultraviolet light processing method. "The goal was to inform producers of proven and/or approved methods for safe cider production and FDA proposals that might affect their industry."

Joe Corby, director of food safety and inspection at the New York State Department of Ag and Markets, opened the workshop with an overview on new regulatory initiatives. He noted that many retailers are reluctant or unwilling to buy fresh fruits and vegetables directly from growers without some kind of official inspection that certifies quality and safety. In response to this concern, a National Food Safety System is in the planning stages. Under the plan, state agencies will coordinate their inspection efforts with the FDA to allow greater coverage and minimize duplication.

Most food inspection occurs at the state and local levels. NYS Ag & Markets has a staff of 80-90 inspectors covering approximately 30,000 establishments. Last year they conducted 200 inspections of cider facilities, licensing 182. After outlining the deficiencies inspectors encountered, Corby indicated that the cider industry has done a good job of policing itself and upgrading its sanitation. The most common critical deficiency was cooper contamination introduced by brass fittings on equipment.

Although the FDA has banned the use of brass fittings, NYS has adopted a wait-and-see attitude until research findings verify a need for stricter regulations.

Because consumers prefer the taste of unpasteurized juice, many producers were curious whether the FDA had approved ultraviolet exposure as a safe alternative to pasteurization. Although UV treatment does alter the taste of the cider a bit, many consider it preferable to heat treatments, which can dramatically affect taste. In the absence of an FDA ruling, New York has recognized that UV-treated cider satisfies the 5-log reduction requirement, which means cider so processed can be sold without the warning label advising consumers of the potential risks associated with consuming cider that has not undergone some kind of microbial treatment.

Corby also briefed the group on the Hazard Analysis Critical Control Point system (HACCP). In the near future, all cider producers will likely be required to submit a HACCP plan that outlines the steps they take to monitor, document, and verify the safety of their cider-production process. Corby predicts that all food products will have a HACCP protocol. Ag & Markets is eager to help producers develop a HACCP plan. He also emphasized the important role that producers play in keeping food safe. "The government isn't going to improve food safety by itself," he said.

Padilla-Zakour and Worobo provided a hands-on demonstration of cider-production in the Fruit and Vegetable Processing Pilot Plant, highlighting the critical points and proper sanitation methods at every step of the process. In the afternoon, they demonstrated various processing options to achieve the mandated 5-log reduction, the role of preservatives, bottling, and storage recommendations, as well as cider evaluation and documentation procedures.

During lunch, Shelley Page, of the New York Apple Association, led a discussion on the merits of forming a cider producers' guild in New York State.

Farm Bureau Wants Death Tax Killed, Stepped-Up Basis Retained

WASHINGTON, D.C. — America's farmers and ranchers applaud congressional efforts to abolish the onerous federal estate tax. But efforts to reform the "death tax" must not lead to new capital gains taxes for farmers and ranchers, according to the American Farm Bureau Federation.

If an important provision known as "stepped-up basis" is not retained in death tax reform legislation, it would force a family member to pay a steep capital gains taxes on an inherited farm. A farmer's ability to pass the family farm on to the next generation would be jeopardized, according to AFBF President Bob Stallman.

In a letter to House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Bill Archer (R-Texas), Stallman stated that if stepped-up basis is not included, 'considerable harm will be inflicted" on farm families, "the very group often cited as the reason for repealing death taxes."

Stallman praised Archer's leadership in announcing plans to mark up freestanding death tax repeal legislation later this month, with a floor vote possibly occurring in June.

"With more than half the House co-sponsoring H.R. 8 — the Death Tax Elimination Act — your announcement of a death tax vote this spring is well timed," Stallman's letter stated.

"We support H.R. 8 because it is a straightforward, logical approach to eliminating death taxes."

Stallman asked Archer to abandon a flawed provision from last year's death tax reform measure that would have eliminated stepped-up basis.

"Elimination of the stepped-up basis would impose a new, potentially huge capital gains tax on farmers and ranchers," Stallman stated. "We are unconditionally opposed to the creation of any new tax, in particular to a tax code change that will increase (new) capital gains taxes on farmers and ranchers."

Stallman's letter explained that the paramount reason for repealing death taxes is to allow family farms and ranches to transfer to the next generation. Higher capital gains taxes caused by the loss of stepped-up basis would jeopardize those transfers.

"Farmers generally do not leave their operations to just one individual, but rather divide their assets (among) their children," Stallman stated. "This means that (family members) who want to continue farming must buy out their nonfarming siblings. Higher capital gains taxes will make it more difficult for this to occur, producing the same result as death taxes, the destruction of family farms."

These Corn Varieties Appeal To The Sweet Tooth

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — There are hundreds of sweet corn varieties, and a vegetable expert in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences said gardeners should grow several types in order to find one that tickles the tastebuds.

"Sweet corn offer a cornucopia of tastes," said Pete Ferretti, professor of vegetable crops. "You also can pick a variety based on kernel color, depth of kernel, sugar content, ear size, and degree of tenderness."

Ferretti said sweet corn seeds are marked with one of three sweetness grades: su (for sugary), se (sugar enriched) and sh2, which has the highest sugar content. He recommends choosing varieties with either su or se grades for home gardening. (An se/se grade means the variety is full sugar enhanced, but doesn't have enough sugar to qualify as an sh2 variety.)

"The sh2 varieties have the toughest kernels and are grown for shipping to off-season markets and for the processing industry," he said. "In addition, sh2 varieties shouldn't be grown within at least a mile of any other corn variety because cross pollination will produce an ear that tastes like field corn."

Ferretti said sh2 varieties can be grown near other corn varieties only if their maturity dates differ by at least two weeks, or if they were planted more than two weeks apart.

Ferretti recommends these varieties for gardens:

White

- Silver Queen (su) Takes 92 days to mature. "This has been the Cadillac of sweet corn for about 30 years," Ferretti said. "It's been popular for a long time, but we now have better varieties."
- Silver King (se/se) Takes 85 days to mature.
- Argent (se) Takes 84 days to mature.
- Silverado (se/se) Takes 82 days to mature.
- Silver Princess (se/se) Takes 75 days to mature.

Yellow

- Incredible (se/se) Takes 84 days to mature.
- Tuxedo (se/se) Takes 79 days to mature.
- Sugar Buns (se/se) Takes 76 days to mature.
- Bodacious (se/se) Takes 75 days to mature.
- Legend (se) Takes 73 days to mature.
- King Arthur (se) Takes 73 days to mature.

Bicolor

- Delectable (se/se) Takes 84 days to mature.
- Mystique (se/se) Takes 77 days to mature.
- Temptation (se/se) Takes 72 days to mature.
- Trinity (se/se) Takes 68 days to mature.

Budget Agreement Falls Short

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The National Farmers Union (NFU) recently acknowledged House and Senate action to set aside $7.1 billion for income assistance initiatives for farmers and ranchers.

However, the organization cautioned that this level of assistance and details of its allocation and distribution are inadequate to meet the ongoing economic crisis in agriculture.

"In this atmosphere of record low farm prices, another assistance package for agriculture is crucial," said NFU President Leland Swenson. "Still, we are concerned that this agreement provides assistance at a level lower than that of last year's package. It fails to identify funds for weather-related crop failures that we know will come to several regions of the country."

The agreement, which is the result of a compromise between the Republican House and Senate budget proposals, sets aside $5.5 billion for direct payments to be paid this year. NFU believes that this assistance is insufficient given the prospects for continued pressure on commodity prices and weather-related crop disasters in the southern Plains and Midwest regions of the nation and a high probability of natural disasters elsewhere.

Additionally, NFU challenges the authorizing committees in Congress to implement policies that result in greater program equity for producers and more effective distribution of this assistance than has occurred under the Freedom to Farm Act and as a result of two prior emergency packages. Assurances need to be made that aid will be provided in a timely fashion to farmers and ranchers according to need.

"The cumulative impact of extremely low commodity prices for the last three years is taking a heavy toll on rural America," said Swenson. "We are pleased Congress provided additional assistance in the budget, but I don't think it is enough to address the problems. I had hoped they would do better."

Joint Annual Convention

dated from 31 to 11. "That gave us six weeks to put together an operating system for this new order," said Walker.

With the merger, the newly-formed Northeast order or Federal Order No. 1, which includes the old Federal Orders 1, 2, and 4, is the second largest order, producing 2.1 billion pounds of milk monthly. It is also the largest order for Class I volume at 900 million pounds monthly.

The Mid East Federal Order is the third largest and resulted from the merger of Federal Orders 33, 36, 40, and 49.

Walker evaluated the progress of four major issues in federal order reform. Those issues included order consolidation, Class I milk pricing, formula price replacement, and multiple component pricing.

"For the most part, everyone is satisfied with the new federal orders," said Walker. "However there is still some unrest about unregulated areas in the Northeast and about California remaining unregulated."

According to Walker, the consolidation eliminated duplicate reporting and grouped competitive handlers into the same markets.

Positives that Walker cited for the Class I differentials were that producer revenue was either enhanced or unchanged, price alignment was improved across orders, and price alignment was improved with unregulated areas.

"There is still intense regionalism between the markets," said Walker. "This comes back to the producer price differential."

Reasons that Walker cited for the regional differences were that the Class I milk price was higher in some areas, the Class I percentage of total volume differed between regions, and the PPD was added to the higher of either Class III or IV milk price.

"The Basic Formula Price is still a problem," said Walker.

The positive aspects that came from reforming the BFP were that grade B milk no longer dictates grade A milk price and that prices are more transparent.

"Many people question the NASS survey reliability," said Walker. "They also question the make allowances and yields. How do we know that a volunteer survey is accurate?"

Walker indicated that more than 100 people participated in a recent hearing to address the BFP pricing system. 32 proposals were heard during five days of testimony.

For the Northeast region, Walker said that hauling rates in New York are still a producer concern. "It's difficult to understand what caused the increases."

He also claimed that reporting and payment dates are too narrow. Coordinating the information flow is also challenging.

"Long term, we are going to have to look at this," said Walker. "It's creating a lot of problems for cooperatives, processors, and the federal order staff."

Ken Bailey reviewed the latest trends in the dairy industry and showed how increased production drove up cheese supplies.

"Cheese stocks are six percent ahead of what they were a year ago," said Bailey. "That's what's keeping prices down."

When he outlined butter prices, he showed that decreased stocks were strengthening the butter or Class IV price.

"We are also importing more dairy products than we have been," said Bailey. "But could it be because our cheese and butter prices are higher than other countries?"

Bailey said that forecasted prices depend on a lot of things. "Futures are showing that the price won't get above $12.50," said Bailey. "But that depends on cow numbers, expansion, and the weather. We don't really know what will happen in the second half of the year."

Bailey concluded his presentation with these points. Milk supply will continue to expand, the big will continue to get bigger, and some farmers will be pushed out.

He questioned whether the existing policies will be tweaked and if we are positioning our farms for the future.

"Regardless of what happens, there are tremendous opportunities for the dairy industry in the Northeast," said Bailey.

Bailey moderated a panel discussion that included John Vetne, Esq.; Robert Wellington, Agri-Mark; Sharad Mathur, Parmalat USA; and Pete Hardin, The Milk Weed. The panel addressed issues such as a free market, the dairy compact, the federal order system, and government involvement.

Other events during the two-day convention included a breakfast buffet, Gettysburg Military Park tour, Shotgun Golf Tournament, guided bus tour of Hershey, and a cocktail party.

The convention culminated with the Annual Banquet on Tuesday evening, where awards and presentations were made.

Mid-Atlantic Brown Swiss Calf Sale Has Highest Average Ever

FREDERICK, Md. — The Mid-Atlantic Brown Swiss Calf Sale was a history-making sale with a great crowd and excellent line up of quality calves. Held last month at the Frederick Fairgrounds, the sale averaged $2,645 on 34 calves, ranging in age from June 1999 to March 2000.

"The sale had exceptional quality all the way through, with an outstanding headliner selling for $11,000," said Cindy Warner, sale manager. "The three high-selling animals averaged $6,366, an impressive sale result in anybody's book."

The sale committee commended consigners for the quality of animals at this year's sale. Animals for the sale were selected by the breeders. "They used their good judgement, honesty, and integrity to send quality animals," said Warner. "It's what this sale is built on and continues to thrive for."

Topping the sale was a blue-ribbon June 1999 heifer, Top Acres Coll Paris, cosigned by Wayne Sliker from St. Paris, Ohio. This tall, straight-lined, deep-ribbed, and dairy heifer was named first place summer yearling and junior champion at the Ohio Spring Dairy Expo held in March. She is sired by R Hart BC Collection and is out of a VG-86 Jetway with a nice index. Paris was purchased by Kenny Manion from Scottsville, Kentucky.

The second high-selling animal was cosigned by Steve Blessing from Ft. Wayne, Indiana. Blessing Jetway Mist, a correct, silky-hided December calf was an eye-catcher and commanded $4,100 from Mike Birch in White Hall, Maryland. Mist is a Jetway daughter out of a VG-85 Aytola with 25,000 pounds milk.

Selling as third high-seller was a big and stylish December Jetway from one of the breed-leading families of the Brown Swiss. The calf, who is out of 3E-91 Top Acres Dotson Shiny, was consigned by Dan Chard and Eric Green of Woodstown, New Jersey, and Woodsboro, Maryland. She was sold to Jarrett Remsberg from Middletown, Maryland, for $4,000.

Consignments were sold to buyers in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Kentucky, North Carolina, Virginia, New York, and Maryland.

"We had another good sale with solid and consistent prices, which continue to indicate the demand and interest of new and repeat buyers at the sale," said Dennis Smith, vice president of the Maryland Brown Swiss Association. "The demand for Brown Swiss is on the rise, and the Mid-Atlantic Brown Swiss Calf Sale is a good place to get one."

According to Smith, two of this year's All-American Brown Swiss were sold in the 1998 calf sale. "We get the kind of calves here that go on to do very well for the new owner," he said.

Six embryo packages, consisting of three frozen embryos, sold for an average of $1,252. The embryo packages featured genetics from leading cow families and national breed greats.

All calves sold are automatically entered in the Mid Atlantic Brown Swiss Futurity with the first payment made by the Maryland Association. The seventh annual Futurity will be held on Sunday, September 3, during the 2000 Maryland State Fair in Timonium, Maryland. For more information about the Futurity contest, contact Cindy Warner at 301-371-5206.

Denny Remsburg was the sale auctioneer, while Wayne Sliker read pedigrees. Juniors helped in the show ring and with leading the animals. Ringmen were Mike Birch and Brian Garrison, and Eric Fleming and Peter Velsiak fitted the animals. Howard Fleming, Dennis Smith, and Harold Long supervised the barn.

The sale was sponsored by the Maryland Brown Swiss Associa-

Home on the Range

Triple Brerry Crisp, created with old-fashioned crisp and three kinds of berries, makes a wonderful addition to company dinner. If you're lucky enough to have some leftovers, try it for breakfast. Berries have more going for them than great taste. They are low in calories and provide important nutrients, including vitamin C, folic acid, fiber, antioxidants, and phytochemicals that help fight disease.

'Berry' Good Eating

Strawberries are packed with nutrition for surprisingly few calories. They're one of those exceptions to the adage, "If you like it, it can't be good for you."

One cup of whole strawberries contains a mere 43 calories. For that, you get the following:

• A whopping 82 milligrams of vitamin C. The recommended daily amount for people 15 and older is only 60 milligrams, so if you eat a cup of strawberries, you can skip your vitamin C supplement for the day.

• An incredible 3.3 grams of fiber.

The recommended amount is about 20 to 25 grams of fiber. The recommended amount is 20 to 25 grams a day, but most Americans don't consume half that. A cup of strawberries would be a good boost toward that goal. (You can thank strawberries' edible seeds for much of that fiber).

• A respectable 240 milligrams potassium. Although it doesn't come close to the 2,000-3,500 milligrams of potassium recommended per day, it will help you step toward that goal.

To get the most enjoyment out of fresh strawberries, choose ones that are fully ripe. Unlike some other fruits, strawberries do not ripen after being picked. The leafy caps should be bright green, fresh-looking, and fully attached.

Avoid berries with large, uncolored, or seedy areas or those with a dull, soft look. And try to choose medium to small berries; they usually have better flavor than overly large ones.

Strawberries stay freshest if you store them in a shallow container in a single layer. Just before serving, rinse the berries in cold water and remove caps.

Enjoy "berry" good eating with these favorites from our readers.

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE

4 cups flour
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cream of tarter
4 teaspoons baking powder
¾ cup butter, cut in
1⅓ cups milk

Combine flour, sugar, cream of tarter, salt and baking powder. Cut in butter and mix well. Add milk and mix well.

Roll out and cut with biscuit cutter. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes.

Place strawberries on biscuits and top with whipped cream or milk. To make whipped cream, whip 2 cups cream with ¾ cup sugar and 1 teaspoon vanilla.

DeVona K. Black

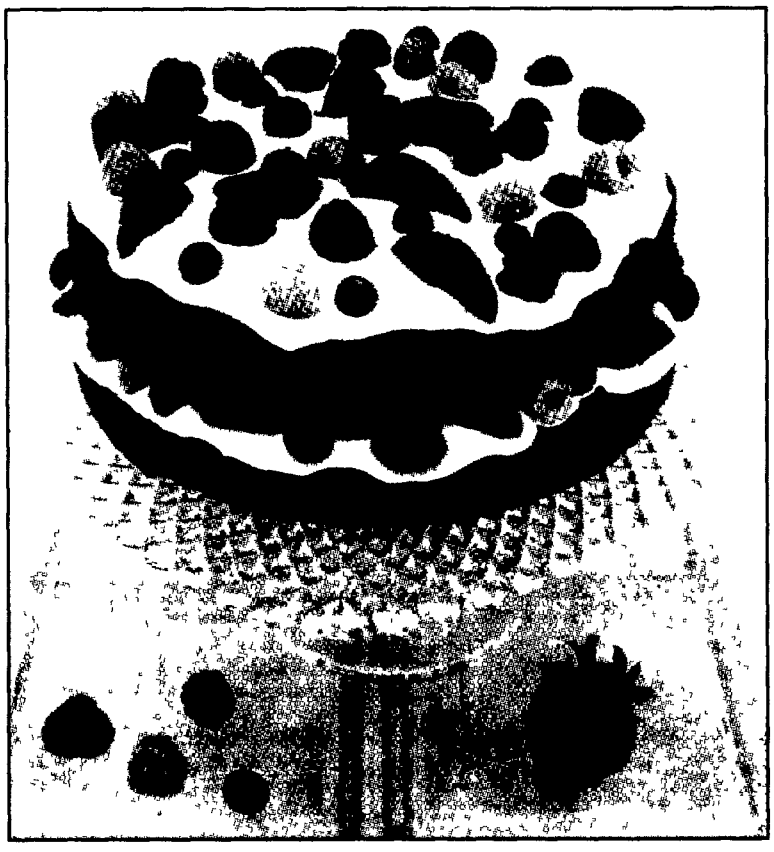
STRAWBERRY JAM

4 pints strawberries, washed, stemmed
2-ounce package low-sugar pectin
3 cups honey

In a large saucepan, gently mash berries. Add pectin to mashed berries. Bring to a vigorous boil, stirring frequently, boil for one minute. Remove from heat. Stir in honey. Quickly and carefully ladle jam into three hot sterilized pint jars, filling to ¼-inch from tops. Wipe rims of jars; top with lids. Screw on bands. Place jars on rack in canning kettle of hot water, adding water if necessary to bring water level to one inch above tops of jars. Bring water to a rolling boil; boil 10 minutes. Remove jars carefully and cool on wire rack.

Renee Blatt
PA Honey Queen

(Turn to Page B8)



Lemon Berry Sour Cream Cake is a dense, rich, and wonderfully lemony cake crowned with a confetti of berries.

Strawberries and ice cream is a natural duo. A new twist to this old favorite is Basil Ice Cream With Strawberries. While most people associate basil with savory dishes, basil is a member of the mint family and is an amazing complement to berries.

Featured Recipe

Berries pack a nutritional wallop — they provide important amounts of vitamins, especially C, plenty of fiber, plus antioxidants and phytochemicals known to prevent certain diseases.

Berries provide folate (folic acid) which helps prevent birth defects and my help reduce the risk of heart disease, stroke, and colon cancer. Berries also help lower LDL cholesterol, a contributor to heart disease, stroke, and atherosclerosis.

Adding strawberries to your cereal, yogurt, and salad can make you and your family happy and healthy.

Here is a recipe from Marie Simmons, author of "Fresh and Fast," and many other cookbooks as well as regular features in Bon Appetit, and other magazines. She specializes in easy, fresh, and good-tasting recipes.

TRIPLE BERRY CRISP

1 pound strawberries
6 ounces blueberries
6 ounces raspberries
6 ounces blackberries
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 cup quick cooking oatmeal (not instant)
⅓ cup sugar
⅓ cup flour
¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
5 tablespoons cold butter, cut into small pieces

Rinse and drain berries. Hull and halve or quarter strawberries. In a large bowl, gently toss all berries with 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, and ¼ teaspoon cinnamon. Turn into lightly buttered 9-inch pie plate or 1½-quart baking dish. In a large bowl, combine oatmeal and ⅓ cup sugar, ⅓ cup flour, and ¼ teaspoon cinnamon.

Add butter and work into the dry ingredients with a wooden spoon or fingertips until mixture is crumbly. Sprinkle evenly over the berries. Bake in preheated 375-degree oven until berries are bubbly and topping is lightly browned and crisp, about 35 to 45 minutes. Serve warm or at room temperature. Top with vanilla yogurt, ice cream or whipped cream. Makes 4 servings.

This recipe can easily be doubled and baked in a 9x13-inch baking dish. You can also prepare the topping in advance and keep in refrigerator until ready to bake the crisp.

On Being a Farm Wife (and other hazards)

Joyce Bupp

Rain or shine, our holiday weekend parade will go on as scheduled.

Assembly of the marchers begins at 4 a.m., when herdsman Ed wakes up to the "girls" with a flip of the barn lights and begins morning milking preparations. Joining the early assembly will be his teammate of the morning, either The Farmer or The Farmer's Daughter, who gives up some sleep a couple of days to help with the bovine bunch.

About daybreak, Derra Dog and I join the parade lineup. I'll help finish the first herd group and milking of the boxstall's newly-calved or special-care occupants. As the early-birds are lining up at the bunk for breakfast, we move on to milking the second grouping of later-lactation cows and newer heifers.

For her first doggie act of the day, Derra takes inventory of the cats who flock around this patient dog like flies to honey. She dutifully barks at any of our early jogging neighbors, sometimes oversees the switching of the cows, and then—on especially warm mornings—flops down square in the front of the barn fan to recuperate from all that exertion. That way, she's rested for the long walk (twenty steps) up the slope toward the calf nursery to supervise calf feeding and sample the cats' breakfast.

Meanwhile, complementing entries in the morning parade begin rolling by on the road: the mixer wagon headed for the bunker silos to blend the day's first batch of feed, field equipment moving out for bean planting or hay mowing, or a tractor with bedding bale impaled on its front prong, enroute to a heifer pen.

Since this is a holiday parade, there will be no usual morning intermission to call for equipment parts or feed deliveries. And—cross our fingers—we'll not need to interrupt it to bother any milking/cooling system service folks for emergency repairs, allowing them to enjoy their own well-earned holiday parades.

Our farm parade does have music, though not the traditional brass band with high-stepping leader clasping a directing whistle between his teeth. Music source here is the barn radio, turned to contemporary or country, but never to "rap" stations. Some of our barn high steppers—especially the newer heifers—get in enough dancing practice without that added rhythmic enticement.

Through this holiday, like every other day, our farm parade will continue with a brief intermission over lunch. Passing by for the day's review will be more tractor-pulled "floats" loaded with mixed feed deliveries, varying entries of machinery, some decorated with bits of limp alfalfa or barn-dust camouflage, as well as the obligatory vehicle bearing a beautiful, smiling young lady (Rachel, our year-old granddaughter) who is just learning to wave to beaming spectators.

As frequently happens during our daily parade runs, this one may have surprise entries: a set of twin calves entering the world, heifers stampeding through new alfalfa fields celebrating their find of an electric fencing outage, thunderstorm barreling in from the west sending us scattering to pull plugs and secure doors, spotting a fox or a deer in the meadow, a neighbor or friend stopping by for a few moments to visit.

Similar parades are being held this holiday weekend on dairy farms (also beef, fruit, grain, vegetable, etc.) across the country, a few hundred thousand of us food producers keeping the other hundreds of millions of our fellow countrymen fed in the quality, quantity, and variety, which we've all come to expect.

Lest we forget, this abundance is largely the result of the entrepreneurial spirit which springs from the freedom and relative peace in which we live this Memorial Day, a freedom which countless defenders have given their lives over the decades to preserve on our behalf.

So, as we picnic, party, and enjoy our own personal parades here in peace and plenty, don't forget to salute their memory by raising and flying your flag.

It's a fitting Memorial.

And, no parade should go on without one.

Glickman Names New Member To Mushroom Council

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman recently announced the appointment of C. Gregory Sagan of Plymouth, Minn., representing region 1, to fill a vacancy on the Mushroom Council. Sagan will serve the remainder of a three-year term ending Dec. 31, 2001.

The Mushroom Council is composed of a minimum of four and a maximum of nine members representing producers and importers in four regions throughout the U.S. Region 1 encompasses 23 New England, Midwestern, and Western states.

Authorized under the Mushroom Promotion, Research, and Consumer Information Act of 1990, the council administers a national promotion, research, and consumer information program to maintain and expand markets for fresh mushrooms. Persons who produce or import an average of more than 500,000 pounds of fresh market mushrooms annually pay assessments to fund the program.

Consuming Thoughts

by

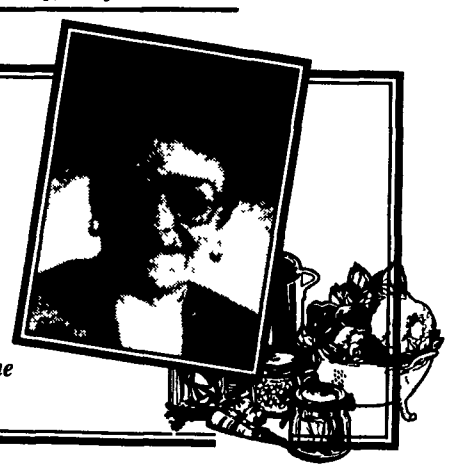
Penn State Extension Home Economist For Berks Co.



Festive foods go hand in hand with special occasions like graduation parties, bridal showers, and father's day celebrations. However, many of these foods are high in fat and low in nutrients. Why not try the following low-fat, nutrient-dense recipes for appetizers and desserts. These foods may also play a role in preventing cancer.

Researchers now know that there is a relationship between the foods we eat and the incidence of some cancers. The American Institute for Cancer Research developed the following guidelines to help reduce cancer risk by:

•reducing the intake of dietary fat, both saturated and unsaturated, to no more than 30% of total calories, and reducing the intake of saturated fat to less than 10% to total calories.

•increasing the consumption of fruits, vegetables and whole grain cereals.

Preparing nutritious foods for special occasions doesn't necessarily mean giving up old favorites and feeling deprived. It does mean changing some ingredients, proportions and cooking methods, thereby making your special occasions a time to also celebrate good health.

Strawberry Dip

7½ ounces farmer's cheese (cream style, not semi-soft)
1 16 ounce package frozen strawberries (sweetened)
2 tablespoons plain non-fat yogurt
¼ teaspoon dried ground ginger

In a blender, food processor or with electric mixer, whip the above ingredients until smooth. Refrigerate for two hours before serving. Makes 2¾ cups.

Variation: One and one-half cups fresh strawberries can be used with 2 tablespoons honey instead of frozen strawberries.

Half-The Fat Carrot Cakes

2 cups carrots, shredded
½ cup golden raisins, chopped
½ cup vegetable oil
2 teaspoons vanilla extract
1 11 ounce can mandarin oranges
5 egg whites
1½ cups cake flour
1½ cups whole wheat flour
2½ teaspoons baking soda
1½ cups sugar
3 teaspoons cinnamon
½ teaspoon ground nutmeg
½ teaspoon salt, optional

Icing

4 ounce Neufchatel or light cream cheese
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cup confectioner's sugar

Preheat oven to 350°F. Combine in food processor or large bowl carrots, raisins, oil, vanilla, mandarin oranges, and egg whites; mix together. In another large mixing bowl, sift together flours, baking sodà, sugar, cinnamon, nutmeg, and salt. Add carrot mixture to dry ingredients and beat until well blended. Pour into two 9 inch lightly oiled cake pans. Bake 40 minutes or until cake tester comes out clean. Cool.

Icing: Blend together Neufchatel or light cream cheese, vanilla and confectioner's sugar. Frost only the middle and top layers of the cake. Serves 16 slices.

Fruit Ambrosia

1¾ ounce package non-instant tapioca pudding
⅛ ounce package non-instant vanilla pudding
20 ounce can pineapple tidbits in natural (reserve juice)
11 ounce can mandarin orange, (reserve juice)
1½ cups (approx.) orange juice
1 cup seedless grapes
1 cup sliced strawberries

Stir puddings together in saucepan. Combine reserved canned fruit juices and enough orange juice to equal 3 cups. Add to puddings. Cook and stir mixture until it comes to a full boil. Cool. Fold in four fruits. Pour into pretty glass serving bowl. Garnish and refrigerate for several hours. Makes 12 half-cup servings.

Variations: Two cups of any sliced fruit may be added instead of the suggested grapes and strawberries (don't use fresh pineapple, though). It won't allow the pudding to firm up). Try fresh peaches when in season.

Juniata County Crowns Bobbi Jo Dressler

Juniata County Dairy Promotion held its Dairy Princess Pageant on Sunday, May 7, at the Walker Grange Hall, Mexico. Bobbi Jo Dressler was crowned the new Juniata County Dairy Princess by 1998/1999 Juniata County Dairy Princess, Jessica Bailor.

Bobbi is the 19-year-old daughter of Russell and Pat Dressler, McAlisterville. A 1999 graduate of East Juniata High School, Bobbi is working full time on the family dairy farm. Bobbi served as 1998/1999 Alternate Dairy Princess and 1999/2000 Dairy Ambassador. She is president of the 4-H Dairy Club and received the 4-H Teen Leader of the Year Award and the William Peoples Memorial Award in 1997.

During the afternoon pageant Bobbi gave a speech titled "Making the Most of Milk," which stated that most lactose intolerance people can consume dairy products in small portions. Bobbi's skit, geared for elementary-age children, was titled "Flower—the Cow," while milking the cow, Bobbi described many products made from milk.

Three alternates were introduced to aid Bobbi in promoting the dairy industry in Juniata County. They are Sara Hoover, the 16-year-old daughter of Thomas and Brenda Hoover of Port Royal; Beth Pontius, the 16-year-old daughter of Jeff and Donna Pontius of Port Royal; and Diana Stouffer, the 16-year-old daughter of Charles and Martha Stouffer of Port Royal. Each alternate also gave a speech and performed a skit.

Master of Ceremonies Judy Geissinger, 1997/1998 Juniata County Dairy Princess, also introduced Little Miss: Brittany Hoover, 4-year-old daughter of Thomas and Brenda Hoover, Port Royal. Dairy Misses: Hannah Ritzman, 7-year-old daughter of James and Tambra Ritzman, Thompsontown, and Kallye Faulkner, 9-year-old daughter of James and Pat Faulkner, Port Royal. Dairy Maids are Carrie Ehrenzeller, 11-year-old daughter of Ken and Jean Ehrenzeller, Mifflintown; Ashley Harshbarger, 11-year-old daughter of Sheldon and Ann Harshbarger, Mifflintown; Jada Faulkner, 14-year-old daughter of James and Pat Faulkner, Port Royal, and Melissa Pontius, 14-year-old daughter of Jeff and Donna Pontius, Port Royal. Dairy Ambassadors are Mark Love, 6-year-old son of Dennis and Heidi Love, East Waterford; Craig Baillie, 11-year-old son of Craig and Nancy Baillie, Thompsontown; Ryan Diffenderfer, 11-year-old son of Brian and Karen Diffenderfer, Mifflintown; Luke Hoover, 12-year-old son of Thomas and Brenda Hoover, Port Royal; Turner Swartz, 12-year-old son of Andrew and Robin Swartz, Port Royal; David Wilson, 13-year-old son of Steve and Barb Wilson, Port Royal; and Mindy Dressler, 15-year-old daughter of Russell and Pat Dressler, McAlisterville.

Beth Pontius, alternate dairy princess; Bobbi Jo Dressler, 2000/2001 Juniata County dairy princess; Sara Hoover, alternate dairy princess; and Diana Stouffer, alternate dairy princess.

During the pageant, special recognition was given to Jessica Bailor for receiving the state's Tina M. Shultz Memorial Award. This recognized her outstanding job in promoting dairy products while serving as the 1998/1999 Juniata County dairy princess. Special recognition was also given to Annlick's Farm Supply for its tremendous support of Juniata County Dairy Promotions.

Following the pageant an all-you-can-eat ice cream sundae bar was enjoyed by those in attendance.

Turbines Spin On Green Mountain Wind Farm

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

GARRETT (Somerset Co.) Irene Decker cant get away from windmills these days. No matter which window she looks through in her centennial farmhouse, with its original oak woodwork well preserved, in her midst is a giant turbine. The windmills have added a new dimension to her, usually, tranquil life.

This spring when eight wind turbines comprising the Green Mountain Wind Farm were built on Decker land, along the Schrock Road in Summit Township, the massive project was a major and great experience for Irene and her husband, Don Decker.

Four windmills each are on Dons farm and his brother, Robert E. Deckers adjacent farm.

Gargantuan in size, the towers are 200-feet high. They rank with the largest in the eastern United States and are the biggest in Pennsylvania. Each of three blades on individual turbines is 95-feet long.

Given the natural beauty surrounding the Decker homestead, it would seem the turbines might have ruined the picturesque landscape, but just the opposite is true.

Rather than offending the panorama, the windmills are exuding a captivating grace that enhances it instead, not only for Irene, but, for an influx of tourists, as well. Green Mountain Wind Farm is a premier attraction for all who see its statuesque giants standing white against the sky, their blades cartwheeling in a glorious rotation.

Irene says her favorite windmill scene is through the picture window facing the pond, outside the family room.

Although she was told how big they would be, when the tubular parts were seen cresting the hill, Irene was amazed.

When I saw the first piece coming over the hill, I thought, WOW! This is really big, she said, adding the shock was greater than anything else about the project which is now producing electricity for customers of Green Mountain.com, in Pennsylvania.

With American National Wind Power (ANWP), the project developer for Green Mountain Energy, South Burlington, Vt., was DisGen, located in Evergreen, Colo. The Decker lands were ideal for the venture. The wind was excellent, the strip mine reclamation has taken place, it was immaculately preserved and nearby was a substation operated by the Somerset Rural Electric Cooperative. The Deckers, moreover, gave up nothing in the agreement and continue to own the property.

When construction finally began after months of testing various aspects for the wind farm, there was certainly a commotion around the homestead. Tons and tons of rock were trucked in to build access roads to the tower sites.

These lay over the verdant fields like ribbons. Concrete pads were built and trenches were dug to bury massive cables. The units, themselves finally showed up from Philadelphia. The tubular sections had been shipped from Denmark where they were manufactured by Nordex GmbH, a Danish and German manufacturer.

Day after day in late winter and early spring, the wide loads arrived, escorted by state and local police and flag cars. What a hulabaloo it was. Unable to resist, curiosity seekers and tourists joined the heavy flow of traffic past the Decker place.

Irene and Dons lives were dramatically altered. Their sense of privacy was all but gone and their tranquility shattered. Even the domesticity of their chickens, turkeys and ducks was kaput.

The animals usually wandered about the place picking in the grass and crossing the paved road without fearing endangerment. But, things got so hectic, the fowl population was sent to stay inside the barn until the dust settled - literally. Still, from his refuge the vocal roosters crows echoed loud and clear.

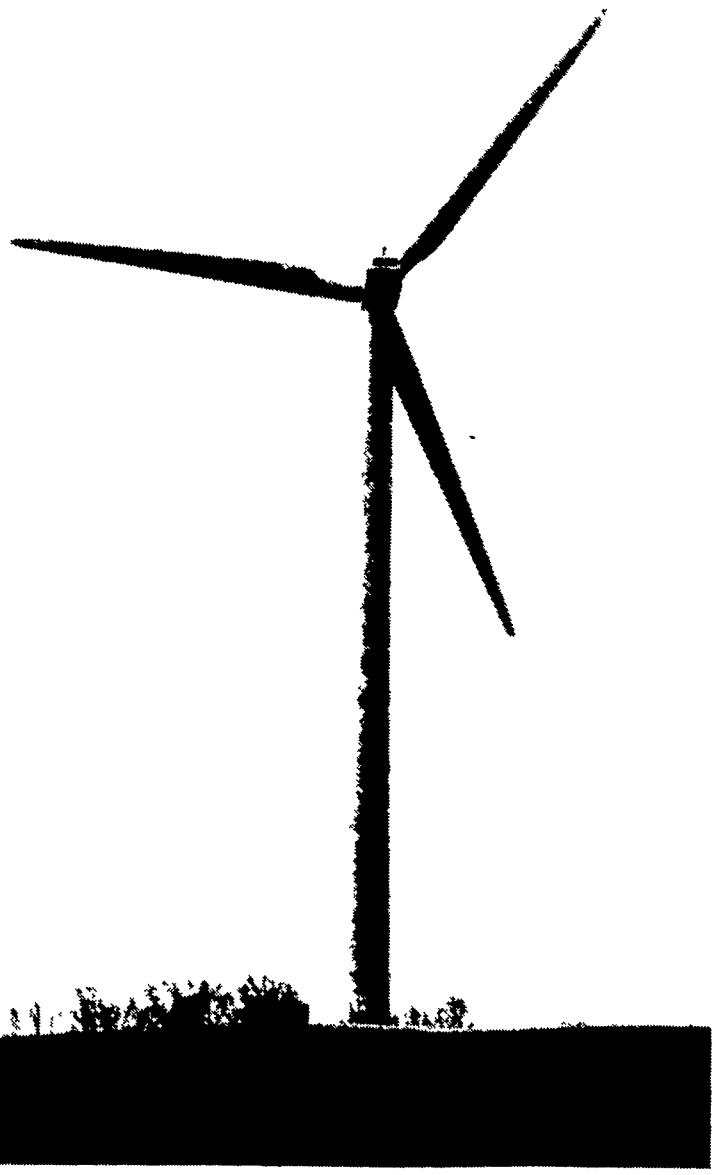
Irene says she is happy the windmills have changed her life. She later, realized that hers had been too orderly an existence. I used to have a routine, she reported. Now I have no routine. I do things when I get the time and its a nice change.

One of the things I have liked about the windmills is meeting all the people, the longtime homemaker said. There are so many nice people. They were courteous and tried to do every thing we wanted, yet, they were common, ordinary people.

Folks that the Deckers have not seen in years have come by. One couple, for instance, was a women who helped Irene decorate her house about 30 years ago. Her husband turned out to be a former school teacher of Irenes.

The Deckers said they were very happy that local companies got the contracts to supply materials, equipment, and manpower for the project.

The turbines are virtually, noiseless. You cant hear anything but a little hum when they are running and then you have to be right under them, Irene said.



Each turbine is 200-feet tall. Each blade is 95-feet long. There are eight windmill towers on the Green Mountain Wind Farm near Garrett, Somerset County.

Enter Dairy Recipe Contest

Lancaster Farming salutes dairy farmers by holding an annual dairy recipe contest during June Dairy Month.

To enter the drawing to receive one of the wonderful bovine-related prizes, select your favorite recipe, which must include a substantial amount of at least one dairy product Dairy ingredients include milk, cream, sour cream, whipped cream, butter, yogurt, buttermilk, dry milk, ice cream, and all hard and soft cheeses.

Please check your recipe ingredients carefully. Margarine and non-dairy substitutes such as whipped topping do not qualify as dairy products.

Clearly print or type your recipe entry. Be sure to give accurate measurements, temperatures, times, and sizes of baking dishes to use.

The difference between this contest and the weekly recipes is that you are asked to include a few paragraphs about yourself and your family. Although it is not required, a photograph of you or with your family adds a wonderful touch to accompany the printed submission. Photos will be returned if you write your name and address on the back of the picture.

Only one entry per family allowed. Send your recipe, photo, and accompanying information with your complete address.

Send entries to Lou Ann Good, Lancaster Farming Dairy Recipe Contest, P.O. Box 609, 1 E. Main St., Ephrata, PA 17522.

The Decker farm house is approximately 100 years old, but the original oak woodwork in Irene Decker's house is beautifully preserved.

Lancaster Dairy Princess Pageant Is June 10

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Most dairy farmers have heard USDA's forecast for the year 2000: milk supply will be up 2.9 percent from 1999; and more of the same low prices that entered with the new millennium.

The one bright spot is the projection that consumption will be up 3.1 percent from 1999. Most of that, according to USDA, is due to a strong economy.

Those in dairy promotion believe at least a part of this increased consumption is related to their efforts. The volunteer effort connected with dairy promotion is centered on the dairy princess, her associated royalty, and the support team of her county promotion committee.

Elisa Ranck, Paradise, the reigning princess, will crown her successor Saturday, June 10, at the pageant to be conducted at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center Auditorium, 1383 Arcadia Rd., Lancaster.

Three contestants, Elizabeth Young, Jill Hoover, and Krista Unger are competing for the title of Lancaster County Dairy Princess.

Elizabeth, 17, who serves as this year's alternate dairy princess will compete for the princess position. Liz, as she is often called, is one of the five children of Dave and Carol Young. The family's Red Knob Farm, Peach Bottom, consists of a herd of 500 Holstein milking cows, approximately 450 young stock, and 400 acres cultivated with corn and hay as the main crops.

In the fall, she will be a senior at Solanco High School where she is an active member of FFA and the National Honor Society. Liz participates in color guard and is a Life Skills co-facilitator, which is a peer mentoring group in her high school.

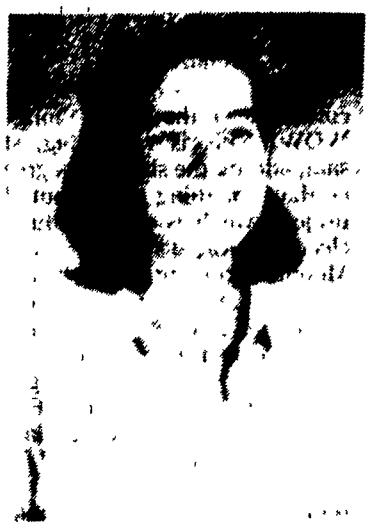
Liz is employed by D&M Wallace Greenery and Muddy Run Snack Shop. In her spare time, she enjoys quilting and country line dancing.

Jill Hoover is the 16-year-old daughter of Carole and Gordon Hoover, Gap. Jill is the oldest of three sisters and will be a senior at Pequea Valley High School this fall. She has served as a Lancaster County dairy ambassador for the past two years. Active in band and chorus, Jill is also a member of the select Chamber Singers, soccer, American Field Service, school musicals, and plays. Jill is also a member of Lancaster County 4-H.

Welsh-Vista is the name of the 188-acre farm where Jill's parents are the third generation to own. They milk 120 Holsteins, and raise 120 head of young stock. Principal crops are corn and alfalfa.

Elizabeth Young

The third contestant, Kristi Unger, Quarryville, is the 17-year-old daughter of Jeff and Mary Unger. Kristi has one older sister, Stephanie Pope. In the fall, Kristi will be a senior at Solanco High School, where she participates in softball, color guard, and concert band. A member of FFA, Kristi is employed at Gerhart's Dairy Farm. Some of her hobbies include line dancing and cross stitching.



Jill Hoover

Volunteering to assist the princesses are six dairy ambassadors. Returning for the second consecutive year is Kari Martin, daughter of Joyce and Leonard Martin, Ephrata, and Lisa Blank, daughter of Cliff and Joyce Blank, Gap.

Other dairy ambassadors to be installed are Lisa's sister Laura; Nicole Benner of Landisville, daughter of Dean and Jennifer Benner; Stephanie Donough, daughter of Timothy and Brenda Donough of Bainbridge; and Cheryl Hershey, daughter of Dale and Martha Hershey of Ronks.

Two dairy misses Tiffany Donough, daughter of Timothy and Brenda Donough of Bainbridge, and Hannah Wentworth, daughter of Robert and Bonnie Wentworth of Quarryville, will assist in promotion.

Dairy Darlings include Valerie Bollinger, daughter of Thomas and Susan Bollinger, Lititz; Stephanie and Toni Kauffman, daughters of Harold and Ann Kauffman of Denver; and Leslie Hoover, daughter of Gordon and Carole Hoover of Gap.

The dairy princess, alternates, ambassadors, misses, and darlings will represent Lancaster County dairy farmers at events throughout the county and state, promoting the benefits of drinking milk and consuming dairy products.

In addition to Elisa, this past year's promotion team consisted of Alternate Princess Elizabeth Young, Peach Bottom; Ambassadors Laura Hess, Mount Joy; Jill Hoover, Gap; and Kari and Jenna Martin, Ephrata; Dairy Misses April Becker, Kinzers, and Brenda Hoover, Gap; and Dairy Darlings Angela Becker, Kinzers; Laken Hoffer, Elizabethtown; Leslie Hoover, Gap; Stephanie Kauffman, Denver; Amber Kiser, Quarryville; Elizabeth Linde, Kirkwood; Stephanie Martin, Ephrata; and Hannah Wentworth, Quarryville.

The team helped promote dairy products at many functions throughout Lancaster County.

Attend the pageant to show appreciation for all the hard work these young women and committee members do for the dairy industry.

Festivities begin with a milk punch and cheese reception at 7 p.m. After the pageant, attendees can indulge in an ice cream social and have the opportunity to meet both past and present members of the promotion team.

Friends and family of the agricultural community are invited to join in the celebration. R.S.V.P. reservations no later than June 2 by telephoning Janet Freehling at (724) 548-5220 or Betty Calhoun at (814) 257-8846.

HOT HOUSE
Far Infrared Rays (FIR) Health Builder

Within the magnetic spectrum, while some rays, such as light, can be seen by the unaided human eye, most are totally invisible to us. Far Infrared Rays (FIR) are well beyond the ability of the naked eye to see FIR is capable of penetrating deep into the human body. It can gently and delightfully elevate the body's temperature. When it does so, it helps to expand capillaries which stimulates blood circulation. This increases the body's energy reserve, and accelerates the metabolic exchange between blood and body tissue. That's not all! FIR can actually increase the body tissue's regenerative ability. It also reduces abnormalities in nervous system and helps the autonomous system function properly.

Does your body get the oxygen it needs?
(Adapted from a quiz by Dr Eigi Noguchi)
Check all the boxes which apply to you -
- ☐ I wake up tired, even after eight hours of sleep
- ☐ I sleep restlessly, waking up frequently
- ☐ I suffer from chronic fatigue
- ☐ I have poor physical endurance
- ☐ I tend to be moody and irritable
- ☐ I am susceptible to colds and flu
- ☐ I suffer from allergies
- ☐ I frequently feel tense and on edge
- ☐ I am frequently constipated
- ☐ I have frequent pain in my shoulder and/or back
- ☐ I have weight problems
- ☐ I crave sweets, alcohol or soda

If you checked more than three boxes, your body might not be assimilating sufficient oxygen. Please consult your physician. You may wish to have your blood oxygen levels tested - before and after you begin to use the Chi Machine.

If you are looking for a recipe but can't find it, send your recipe request to Lou Ann Good, Cook's Question Corner, in care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. There's no need to send an SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible. Check your recipe to make sure you copy the right amounts and complete instructions for making the recipe. Sometimes we receive numerous answers to the same request, but cannot print each one.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address. You may also e-mail questions and answers to lgood.eph@lnpnews.com

QUESTION — Shirley Miller, Nazareth, would like to find a recipe or booklet about potato flour.

QUESTION — Lucy Lowe, Claymont, Del., wants a recipe to make crisp, buttery, coconut cookies. She writes that she can't wait to read this column every week.

QUESTION — Brian Bates, Leesport, wants a recipe for Black Diamond Steak.

QUESTION — Lois Hughes, Portage, wants a recipe for the cookie/brownie ingredients placed in a quart canning jar and that resemble sand art.

QUESTION — Maria Dalrymple, Shinglehouse, writes that a deceased aunt used to make a fabulous strawberry pie. Unfortunately the recipe was never given to the family in written form, and they miss it every strawberry season. The pie was called President Dwight David Eisenhower's Favorite Strawberry Pie. Any readers have a copy to send?

QUESTION — Cindy Stahl has Alpine dairy goats that provide the family with more milk than needed. She would like recipes for milk-based recipes other than puddings, ice cream, cheese, butter, and milk soap. Non-dessert recipes would be most appreciated.

QUESTION — Herman Bean, Easton, writes that he is 78 years old. He remembers his grandmother made molasses cookies when he was a small boy. His mother still made them at 95 years of age but died 10 years ago and took the recipe with her. The dough was cut with flower or boy and girl-shaped cookie cutters. When baked, the cookies were about an inch thick, 4-inches high, and 2- or 3-inches wide. They were sort of a grayish color, soft, and had to be put into a can for a couple of days before eating. Bean said, he believes the cookies are a "Dutch favorite."

QUESTION — Shirley Schwoerer, Wysox, requests a recipe for canned pickled sausages or ring bologna.

QUESTION — Ruth Erb, Beavertown, wants a recipe called Ann-Margaret's Favorite Chocolate Cake.

QUESTION — A reader from Dauphin would like a recipe for society pickles, which she heard stay crunchy after they are canned.

QUESTION — Steven Skramko, Richfield Springs, N.Y., would like a recipe to make Shoe Top cookies, which look like leather used for repairing shoes. He writes the recipe is from 60 years ago.

QUESTION — Chris Martin, Benton, wanted to know how to make dough pockets similiar to "Hot Pockets." If we do not receive an answer to this request within two weeks, we assume no one knows the answer, and will drop the request.

QUESTION — Trina Boitnott, Boones Mill, Va., wants a recipe for pecan jelly and other nut-flavored jellies. She tasted pecan jelly in a specialty shop in Virginia. The jelly tasted exactly like pecan pie in a jar. If we do not receive an answer to this request within two weeks, we assume no one knows the answer, and will drop the request.

QUESTION — A reader wants to know if it's possible to make puffed wheat or puffed rice without much financial investment.

ANSWER — A reader wanted vanilla or lemon pudding recipes to fill doughnuts. Thanks to a Lancaster Farming subscriber for sending two recipes and for suggesting that packaged pudding mixes in any flavor can be prepared according to boxed directions and used to fill doughnuts.

Custard Cream Filling

⅓ cup sugar
3 tablespoons cake flour
Dash salt
1 cup milk
1 egg yolk, slightly beaten
½ teaspoon vanilla

Combine sugar, flour, and salt in top of double boiler. Add milk and egg yolk, mixing thoroughly. Place over boiling water and cook 10 minutes, or until thickened, stirring constantly. Cool; stir in flavoring. Makes one cup.

Lemon Filling

¾ cup sugar
3 tablespoons corn starch
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup water
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
1 tablespoon butter
⅓ cup lemon juice
4 drops yellow food color, if desired

Mix sugar, corn starch, and salt in saucepan. Stir in water gradually. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and boils. Boil and stir 5 minutes. Remove from heat; add lemon peel and butter. Stir in lemon juice and food coloring. Cool. If filling is too soft, refrigerate until set.

ANSWER — Elaine Fyock, Windber, wanted a recipe for New England clam chowder, which tastes similiar to that served at Ponderosa Retaurant. Here's one from a reader, not necessarily like that served at Ponderosa, but its a chowder that is rich with the pure taste of clams as "Down Easterners" like it. And, ly chowders, it contains salt pork and vegetables.

Down East Clam Chowder

1 quart coarsely chopped clams
¼ pound salt pork, sliced
1 quart water
½ cup chopped onion
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
4 cups diced potatoes
1 cup mashed potatoes for thickening (optional)

In large saucepan, fry pork over medium heat until crisp. Remove pork and discard. Add clams, water, onion, salt and pepper. Bring to boil. Reduce heat and cook slowly until clams are tender, about 1½ hours. Add potatoes and onion, and cook until potatoes are done, about 20 minutes. Add mashed potatoes and simmer until thickened, about 5 minutes. Serves 8 to 10.

Here's another version of a simple but elegant soup. The rich flavor of crab meat is dominant and is only enhanced by the light seasonings.

Crab Soup Deluxe

1 pound lump crab meat
3 tablespoons butter
2½ cups chopped onion
½ teaspoon pressed garlic
3 cans tomatoes, undrained, chopped
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
⅛ teaspoon Tabasco sauce
½ teaspoon marjoram
½ teaspoon ground thyme
½ teaspoon fresh lemon juice
Grated peel of one lemon
1 tablespoon finely chopped fresh parsley

Melt butter in large saucepan over medium heat. Saute onion and garlic until tender but not brown. Add tomatoes, salt, pepper, Tabasco, marjoram, thyme, lemon juice, and lemon peel. Bring to boil. Reduce heat and simmer 30 minutes until flavors are mingled and tomato liquid is reduced. Add parsley and crab meat. Heat thoroughly, but do not overcook crab meat. Serve immediately. Serves 8.

ANSWER — For those who like to make homemade sausage and for those who like to eat it but do not have the time to make it, here are some quick-mix sausage recipes. According to the National Pork Producers Council, making sausage is simple. It's simply seasoned ground meat. you don't need new or strange equipment. Use a food processor or meat grinder to grind the meat, season, and cook. Making sausage from fresh pork allows cookes to choose the specific pork cuts and trim lean. Seasoning to taste allows cooks to control seasoning and salt. Salt may be omitted altogether.

Breakfast Sausage

3 pounds fresh pork
1 small onion, sliced
4 garlic cloves
2 teaspoons dried sage, crumbled
1 teaspoon dried savory, crumbled
2 teaspoons salt (optional)
½ teaspoon ground black pepper
6 tablespoons milk

Trim pork of all fat; cut into 1½-inch cubes. Freeze pork 30 minutes. In meat grinder or food processor, grind pork and then grind pork again with onion and garlic.

In large bowl, mix seasonings into pork mixture. Stir in milk one tablespoon at a time. Cover and chill one hour.

Form into 12 patties, cover and refrigerate for 12 to 24 hours to marry flavors. Use within two days or wrap in air-tight paper and freeze.

To cook: Over medium-high heat on griddle or in skillet, cook sausages until browned and cooked through.

Quick-Mix Sausage

1 pound ground pork
Desired seasonings

Thoroughly mix seasonings into ground pork. Shape into patties and brown or panbroil and crumble for use in a recipe.

Country-Style Sausage: Combine ¾ teaspoon ground sage, ¼ teaspoon ground pepper, and ½ teaspoon salt.

Italian Sausage: Combine 1 clove minced garlic, 1 teaspoon paprika, 1 teaspoon crushed thyme, ½ teaspoon fennel seeds, ⅛ teaspoon cayenne, and ½ teaspoon salt.

Mexican Chorizo: Combine 1 tablespoon ground red chiles, ½ teaspoon ground coriander, ¼ teaspoon ground cloves, ¼ teaspoon ground black pepper, ¼ teaspoon oregano, ¼ teaspoon ground cumin, 2 minced garlic cloves, and 1 teaspoon salt.

STRAWBERRY CREAM ROLL

Line a 15½X10½-inch jelly roll pan with foil. Grease foil or spray with cooking spray. Beat until thick:
3 large eggs
Gradually beat in:
1 cup sugar
5 tablespoons water
1 teaspoon vanilla
Sift together and beat in all at once:
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
Beat mixture just until smooth. Pour into prepared pan. Bake at 375 degrees for 12-15 minutes or until cake tests done. Loosen edges and immediately turn upside down on a towel. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar. Peel off foil. Beginning at the short end and lifting towel as you go, roll into a log shape. Wrap in the towel until cool. Unroll and spread with the following:
1 cup sweetened whipped cream
Sprinkle with about:
1½ cups sliced, fresh strawberries
Reroll. Chill until ready to serve.
Note: Several toothpicks may be used to keep roll neat. Slice in thick slices. Keeps well several days in refrigerator.

STRAWBERRY-RHUBARB COBBLER

Filling:
1 cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
4 cups sliced fresh rhubarb
2 pints fresh strawberries, capped, stemmed
1 tablespoon butter
Dough:
1¾ cups all-purpose flour
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup butter
Topping:
1 tablespoon sugar
¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
Heat oven to 400 degrees. For filling, combine sugar, cornstarch, cinnamon, salt, and nutmeg in large bowl. Add rhubarb and strawberries, toss to coat. Spoon into 11x17-inch glass baking dish. Cut butter into small pieces and sprinkle over fruit. For dough, combine flour, sugar, baking powder, and salt in medium bowl. Cut in butter with pastry blender or two knives until mixture is the size of small peas. Add milk; stir with fork just until dry ingredients are moistened. Dough will be lumpy. Drop in eight mounds over fruit. For topping, combine sugar and cinnamon; sprinkle evenly over dough. Bake 30 to 35 minutes or until gold brown and filling is bubbly. Cool on wire rack. Serve warm. Enjoy!

Thermometers Determine Meat's Doneness

How hot do hamburgers need to be cooked?

Hamburger should be cooked to 160 degrees. Think "Sweet 16" to remember the first two digits of that magic number, and that might help you remember it.

Ground turkey and ground chicken should be cooked to 165 degrees.

As you probably realize, color is no longer recommended as a good indicator for doneness. Sometimes meat can remain pink and still be cooked to a safe temperature, and sometimes fully browned meat isn't really hot enough. So if you haven't already done so, take the plunge and invest in a good meat thermometer.

Ground meats are especially susceptible to food-borne illness because bacteria tends to collect on the outer surfaces of meats. When meat is ground, that bacteria gets spread all through the meat. For similar reasons, it's also good to use a thermometer on casseroles, stews and other combination dishes.

For measuring temperature in thin foods like hamburger patties, the U.S.

Department of Agriculture's Food Safety and Inspection Service recommends the "instant-read" type that's designed to measure temperature near the end of the cooking time.

Read the manufacturer's instructions to determine how far to insert the thermometer. If those went out with the trash long ago, check the stem.

Some models have an indentation or "dimple" that indicates how deep the stem should penetrate into the meat. As a general rule, most digital types have a ceramic semiconductor in the tip, so the probe needs to be inserted only a half-inch or so to get an accurate reading. Dial thermometers must penetrate about 2 to 3 inches into the food - you can stick them sideways into hamburger patties so the entire sensing area in the probe is fully inserted in the meat.

It's also best to occasionally check the thermometer to make sure it's giving an accurate reading. Boil some water on the stove and dip the stem into it. It should read 212 degrees Fahrenheit. If it doesn't, check for a calibration nut under the dial or digital display. Adjust it until the display reads 212 degrees.

Students Learn About Direct Marketing In 'Mini-Society' Project

JAYNE SEBRIGHT
Lancaster Farming Staff

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — This year's fifth graders at Milton Hershey School learned about agriculture and direct marketing by producing, promoting, and selling their very own products.

Last week the four-month "mini-society" project culminated with a "Made By Me, Inc." open air market. Students sold their goods to other students, faculty, and parents at the market.

"Today is probably the most fun part," said Todd Biddle, who is the instructional adviser for the animal center of the school's agriculture and environmental education (AEE) department. "But it was all hands-on, so the kids learned and had fun along the way."

The project started with an assembly held in February where each AEE staff member presented the products that they had available and students chose their first and second choice. Then fourteen teams of six students each were formed based on the student's choices.

The objective of the project was to show fifth graders how society makes and sells goods. "We have the students take raw ingredients, make the products, and then sell the products," said Biddle. "We're teaching them about the four P's of marketing — product, price, place, and promotion."

This is the first year that the school has integrated the AEE department into the "mini-society" project. In past years, the students just purchased their products to sell. But this year they had to make them from scratch. Some of the products included Moo Glue made from milk, Honey Candles made from honey, and Goat Soap made from goat's milk.

"The project really mimicked real life," said Biddle. "Our group did a marketing survey, but not many people actually responded to it. This is something that would happen to a marketing firm."

The students also learned to have a marketing plan with back-up options in case the first plan didn't work. "Some of the soap in our group didn't mold properly, so we put together soap sachets," said Biddle. "The kids learned that failure is part of the real world."

Learning about failure helped the students relate to the founder of the school. "Some of Milton Hershey's projects failed," said Biddle. "It teaches kids to be willing to go back to the drawing board and try again."

Although faculty and other guests were given $100 to spend at the open-air market, fifth graders had to earn their spending money. For the two weeks prior to the market, their teachers awarded kids money for good behavior. They also had to develop promotional posters in art class. The art teacher gave the students money based on their grade.

Students were graded on different processes throughout the course of the project. They were graded on their ability to work in a team, develop a marketing survey, and write a marketing plan. According to Biddle, there was a form of assessment for every aspect of the project.

"It was an excellent project for the students to work on," said Biddle. "A lot of the kids came to us along the way and said 'wow, I never realized everything that went into this.' "

Each team met for one hour each week during school to work on their project. Several groups also met after school to put extra effort into their product or marketing plan.

"Each group did something a little different," said Biddle. "Some had to make their products several months in advance, while other products (like candy apples) couldn't be made until last night."

The Milton Hershey School integrates agriculture and environmental education into the curriculums of every grade level. The "mini-society" project is the fifth graders' AEE project, while fourth graders have a mini-county fair and third graders simulate what happens in the "Ox Cart Man" book. Kindergarten through second grades work with a butterfly unit.

"The projects help students learn about agriculture's role in our society while integrating AEE projects into the students' curriculums," said Biddle.

Brandon Cool and Amber Haskins took two weeks to make their product, Moo Glue. It's made from vinegar, milk, and baking soda.

Melissa Woltenate sells goat soap to Rebecca Boyer. Woltenate said the most fun part of making the soap was watching it dry into the molds and seeing how it would turn out.

Arnaldo Medina and Jordan Wynatt look over the items they bought at the market. Medina earned $430 in play money to use at the market, while Wynatt earned $315. The kids received the money from teachers for being good and getting good grades. Wynatt bought things that he thought his mom and family might like, while Medina was going to give the candles he purchased to his housemate.

AEE Teacher George Manwiller helps Kendrick Holley and David Schoffstall wrap their candy apples, which went for $20 in play money at the market. Their group offered two types of apples, Caramel coated Macintosh and Taffy coated Jonathan Golds.

HERE'S SOMETHING ABOUT ICE CREAM

Lighter Wheat Breads On Horizon

Why does white bread have so much less fiber than wheat bread? Aren't all breads made from wheat flour?

Actually, you get the most fiber from bread labeled "whole" wheat or "whole" grain bread — that's the only kind made from flour that includes the whole grain of wheat, without the bran or germ removed during milling.

Amounts of fiber vary, but you can generally count on about 1.5 grams to 3 grams of fiber per slice of whole wheat or whole grain breads.

However, most wheat bread on the grocery store shelf isn't "whole" wheat — take a careful look at those labels. Because there's a bit of the whole grain in breads usually labeled "wheat," you can usually count on about one gram of fiber per slice instead of the half-gram usually found in a slice of white bread. Read the Nutrition Facts labels on your favorite breads to make sure what you're getting.

Still, white bread remains the most popular type of bread on the grocery store shelf, even though the process that makes refined white flour from hard red wheat also removes many of the nutrients and fiber that's in the whole grain. (Of six basic classes of wheat, most bread flour comes from either hard red winter wheat or hard red spring wheat. The names come from these varieties' growing seasons, their color and their hardness.) Enriched products have iron and B-vitamins added back into the flour, but some other nutrients and the fiber remain missing.

That's one reason wheat breeders are coming up with new varieties of white wheat that can be used for both pasta production — important for the huge Asian noodle market — and for white bread. When enough of the new varieties are grown, mills can grind the white wheat without removing the bran and the nutrients.

The resulting bread won't be as white as white bread — it will be a creamy or even a buttery-yellow color. It will also be more mild tasting than today's whole wheat varieties — a plus for some people, especially children who can be picky about those sorts of things.

It might take a year or two, but you can expect to see lighter-colored whole wheat breads available soon.

BASIL ICE CREAM WITH STRAWBERRIES

4 cups heavy cream
1 cup firmly packed fresh basil leaves
1 tablespoon grated orange peel
8 egg yolks
¾ cup sugar
2 pounds strawberries

In a medium saucepan over medium-high heat, bring cream, ½ cup basil and orange peel to boiling. Remove from heat, cover and let stand 30 minutes. With whisk or electric mixer, in large bowl, beat egg yolks until blended. Add sugar and beat well.

Very slowly blend in about 1 cup cream-basil mixture in saucepan, stirring constantly. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a boil. Remove from heat and place saucepan in bowl of ice. Stir frequently to cool completely. Pour into blender, add remaining basil and blend until very smooth, at least two minutes. Strain through very fine sieve. Turn into ice cream maker and freeze according to manufacturer's directions. Cover tightly and store in freezer until ready to serve.

To serve, rinse, drain, hull and halve or slice the berries and arrange in serving dishes or glasses. Top with scoop of basil ice cream.

LEMON BERRY SOUR CREAM CAKE

4 egg whites
½ teaspoon cream of tartar
¼ cup sugar
6 tablespoons butter, softened
1½ cups sugar
8 egg yolks
1 cup plain yogurt
2 cups flour
1½ teaspoons baking soda
Pinch salt
1 lemon, zested, juiced

In small mixing bowl, beat egg whites with cream of tartar until foamy. Gradually add the ¼ cup sugar, beating constantly, until stiff peaks form. Set aside.

In large mixing bowl, beat butter and sugar together. Gradually beat in egg yolks, then yogurt. Stir together flour, baking soda and salt, and gradually blend into creamed mixture. Stir in lemon zest and juice. Gently fold the egg whites into the egg yolk mixture. Turn into two greased and floured 9-inch round cake pans. Bake in preheated 350-degree oven until top springs back when lightly touched or wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean, about 30 minutes. Let cakes cool in pans on racks for 5 minutes. Turn cakes out of pans onto racks and invert so they cool bottom-side down. Cool completely before frosting.

Berry Topping:

1 pound strawberries
6 ounces red or golden raspberries
6 ounces blueberries
6 ounces blackberries

To assemble: Rinse and drain all berries and let dry on paper towels. Hull and quarter strawberries. Place one cake layer, top side down, on cake plate. Spread with half the frosting. Arrange half the berries over the cake. Top with remaining cake layer, bottom-side down. Spread frosting over top of cake layer, and cover with berries. If you have any berries left over, scatter them over each slice of cake as you serve it.

Lemon Sour Cream Frosting:

6 tablespoons butter, softened
¾ cup confectioners' sugar
12-ounces cream cheese, softened
¾ cup sour cream
2 teaspoons grated lemon zest
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Cream butter, beat in confectioners sugar. Add cream cheese, sour cream, lemon zest, and lemon juice. Beat thoroughly. Makes 12-16 servings.

Cambria Dairy Princess Loves Promoting And Travel

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

EBENSBURG (Cambria Co.) — Anyone who hears about the accomplishments of Brandy Krug, the 19-year old Cambria County dairy princess, who also is a world traveler, in comparison, may feel their own life embarrassingly dull.

The eldest of Donald and Shane Krug's eight children, Brandy speaks easily about her active schedule, but she seems to have the advantage of naturally being a focused person who isn't easily distracted.

Her siblings at their Ashville, Cambria County home, include Jamie, 16; Katie, 14; Michelle, 12; Heather, 10; Aundrea, 8; James (the only boy), 6 and Caraline, 4.

Brandy has just completed her freshman year at Juniata College in Huntingdon. She is interested in using Biology in the medical field. This summer, therefore, she will job shadow one day a week with a doctor in the Mainline Medical Center, Altoona and Cresson.

Rather than stemming from a family connection to farming, Brandy's job at Vale Wood Farms made her eligible to become the dairy princess. Vale Wood Farms is run by Jan Itle and her brothers. Jan and her sister-in-law, Machelle Itle, help head up dairy promotion in Cambria County.

Started by Itle's grandfather about 70 years ago, the family operation consists of 200-head dairy herd and a milk processing and delivery business.

So when Brandy breaks from working with calves, milking cows or performing miscellaneous work, she perks herself up with a chocolate milk or an ice cream treat.

Rubbing shoulders with Jan Itle generated Brandy's interest in the dairy princess program. It appealed so strongly to Brandy she thought if she was first the alternate, she could learn more under less threatening conditions.

"I had so much fun as the alternate, I wanted to do this as princess," she said. "Overall, I don't think I have changed, but my public speaking has changed and public confidence in myself.

"I am really surprised when people remember me," she said. A favorite memory is from a guest appearance she made to a Johnstown Johnnies minor league baseball game. A little girl in possession of a Johnnies' baseball honored Brandy by asking for her signature on the souvenir.

The most gratifying promotion she held was awarding an ice cream party to a class at the Penn Cambria Middle School.

Among the names kids gave her were "Dairy Queen" and "Dairy Fairy."

Brandy did not neglect her many obligations while college and dairy promotion activities were running neck and neck. She acknowledges it was sometimes very stressful.

"I did most of the promotions during breaks and weekends. I have done three promotions one day in three different towns in one county. You have to be very courteous. You have to watch the way you act at all times," she said.

To any dairy princess she advises: "Have fun and enjoy what you are doing or you won't be effective."

During her reign, she found how uninformed the public really is about the dairy industry and also, the public is sometimes oblivious to what farmers go through to produce food.

As a teen, Brandy deserves kudos for achieving certain goals she set for herself. For instance, the independent young woman with her own savings from 4-H animal projects and extra weekend work, paid her fare to Australia and New Zealand with the People to People Student Ambassador program.

More recently, as a college service learning project, Brandy traveled to Honduras during spring break where she saw extreme poverty. The goal was for the students to see first-hand the problems, then return home and find the means to help.

"You can't save the world," she said, "but you find out things you can do to help them."

Two years of high school Spanish did not prepare the exemplary young woman for fluent communications while in the host country. She simply stayed close to those whose command of the language was better than her own, she said.

In July 2000, Brandy will be off again, this time to Chili in South America. A college friend who lived there for years will be her travel partner.

Brandy says a dairy princess should be confident because she can make a difference in someone's health. A dairy princess is capable of helping to prevent osteoporosis in someone's life and that is quite an accomplishment, she said.

15'7" cut. Superior conditioning.

The NEW 1441 Discbine® disc mower-conditioner uses 12 discs to make a wide 15'7" cut through your heaviest, toughest crop conditions. You'll clear large fields fast and condition crops thoroughly for fast drydown.

- The advanced independent modular design uses individual disc modules with sealed gear cases connected by independent drive shafts for easy maintenance and repair.
- 102" chevron-design intermeshing rubber rolls provide high capacity and gentle, even conditioning.
- Standard swivel hitch tongue gives you exceptional maneuverability to make tight headland turns and over-square corners.

NEW HOLLAND

Two jobs, one tool: It's a tedder and a rake

The Model 255 rake tedder is a flexible machine — it's the tedder that also rakes.

- Rake a swath into a windrow
- Rake two windrows into one
- Turn windrows for faster drying
- Move crop away from fences or borders
- Ted a 10½-foot area to fluff up wet, matted-down crop for quick drying

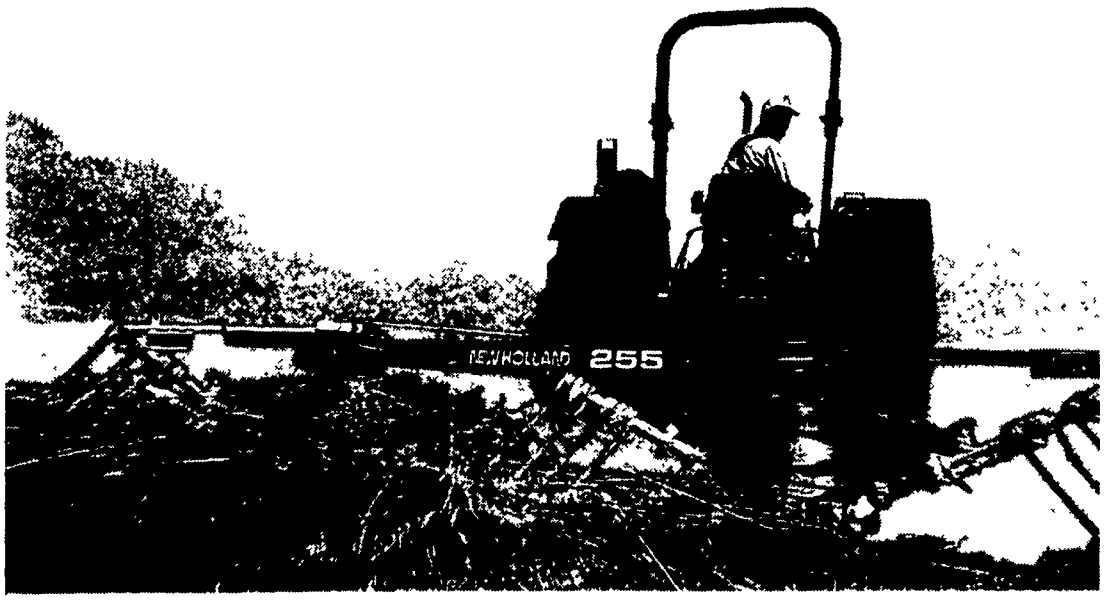
NEW HOLLAND



Big capacity. Uniform chop.

No other forage harvesters give you best-in-class capacity and chop quality. Only the new FP230 and FP240 forage harvesters from New Holland.

- Rugged 1,000-rpm driveline matches higher-horsepower tractors. Use the FP230 with tractors up to 225 PTO hp and the FP240 with tractors up to 300 PTO hp.
- Massive 12-knife cutterhead produces a uniform length of cut from 3/16" to 1-5/16" with four knives.
- Knife sharpening and shearbar adjustment are easy to keep cutting performance at its best.
- Optional on-board Crop-Pro™ crop processor makes feed more digestible and saves the expense and time of using a stationary roller mill.
- Optional Metalert® III electronic metal detector gives you peace of mind.

Put quality silage under wraps

- Model B27P is an economic utility wrapper for medium-volume silage producers
- Model B37P is ideal for custom harvesters or operations wrapping large volumes of bales

Both offer a side-mounted lifting arm, three-belt turntable, two large side-support rollers, and cable controls. The B37P is available with computer controls.

State Farm Women Gather For 35th Spring Rally

Happiness In The New Millennium

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Society continues to change, but "happiness" remains constant for the Society of Farm Women of Pennsylvania.

Founded in 1914, the society's motto has always been "for happiness."

About 600 Farm women members from across the state gathered May 17 at the Lebanon County Exposition Center for the organization's annual spring rally. Its theme, "For Happiness in the New Millennium," stressed the importance of spreading happiness to others by feeding the soul and body.

The program included highlights from the past, planning for the future, remembering the sick, sharing talents, and renewing friendships among each other.

For many members, the organization has enabled them to develop friendships with each other. Although members meet monthly within county societies, the annual Farm Women conventions are generally the only times they have to visit with members across the state.

County societies take turns in hosting the annual spring rally. This year, the 20 societies of Lebanon County hosted the event.

The society's state president Catherine Schott is from Lebanon County. She filled many roles in the day-long event.

One of the most outstanding was directing the Lebanon County Farm Women Chorus. Catherine, a well-known choir director, enjoyed forming the chorus, which provided outstanding entertainment throughout the day.

As president, Catherine is required to name a state project for all members to work on during her three-year term. The project: Helping Feed the Hungry in the New Millennium is two-fold according to Catherine. Members are encouraged to meet individual needs of people they know and to work together on the county level through food banks, soup kitchens, and other organizations.

Feeding the needy does not always require physical food, according to Catherine. "Many people are lonely. They need friendship to feed the soul. Meet those needs," she said.

Members have a chance to converse with old friends and meet new ones during the luncheon.

Entertainment options also have increased dramatically at the expense of less time communicating effectively with people.

"Sewing is a lost art," Schadler said of recalling that previous generations had sewed almost on their own clothing. "Today is a throw-away culture that is prone to get rid of things — rather than mend, refinish, or reupholster."

Schadler said, "Reflecting about how culture has changed in the past 60 years makes us wonder how the next generation will live."

If Farm Women have any input, life will continue "for happiness."

Other activities included a fashion show with Farm Women members modeling clothing from Fashion Bug and musical entertainment by Joann Thomas, radio station WWSM 1510.

Members were asked to pray and send cards to fellow members Lois Erb, who is suffering from terminal cancer, and to Peggy Speice, who is awaiting a liver transplant.

QUESTION — Charlotte Lippincott, Pilesgrove, N.J., would like to know how to start Royal Paulowina trees with purple flowers. She picked up some seed pods last winter. Inside are two large seeds and a lot of little seeds like fuzzies in each pod. She would like to start some trees. What should she do?

QUESTION — A. H. wants success with growing melons, cantaloupes, zucchini and other vine crops. He writes that, in the past, healthy-looking plants with fruit on suddenly (almost overnight) wilt from the center out and die off. What can be done to prevent this from happening?

QUESTION — Esther Zook, New Holland, wants to know where to buy freezer popsickle molds.

QUESTION — A Mercersburg reader can no longer find butternut flavoring sold by Blair of Lynchburg, VA. The product was sold by the bottle as a fundraiser for groups and organizations. The reader has tried other brands of the butternut flavoring but didn't get the same flavorful results. Anyone know if the Blair brand is still available and where?

QUESTION — Dale Burkhart is looking for a lard can lid with the printing: Henry Burkhart Packing Co. Pure Lard 50 lb. Dayton, Ohio. Anyone have one they'd like to sell?

Pat Turns His Farm Into A Country And Gospel Music Amphitheater

The Pat Garrett Amphitheater is the "baby" of entertainer and entrepreneur, Pat Garrett, who first conceived of the place after performing at a jamboree in 1983. In 1994, he finally made his dream a reality.

Located in a big field is a huge 102-foot stage, held up by gigantic timbers, and flanked by large wooden balconies. The stage faces a natural bowl of freshly-mown, green grass where folks set up their own lawn chair and settle in for a fabulous evening of music. The amphitheater holds about 3,000 people, allowing a more intimate setting for enjoying favorite country artists.

In the past, included such names as Johnny Cash, Willie Nelson, Charlie Daniels Band, Loretta Lynn, Sammy Kershaw, George Jones, Billy Ray Cyrus, and Ricky Van Shelton.

The amphitheater is lined with vendors selling a variety of food.

Nestled at the foothills of the beautiful Blue Mountains of Pennsylvania, the amphitheater is very easy to get to despite it's country setting. Located at Exit 7, just off of Rt. 178, the amphitheater is about 40 minutes east of Harrisburg, 40 minutes west of Allentown, and 1¼ hours northwest of Philadelphia. The amphitheater is also close to many restaurants, hotels, shopping areas and campgrounds.

Tickets are reasonably priced (children under 10 get in free in general admission!), and discounts are available by purchasing in advance.

Tickets can be purchased through your local ticketmaster, or directly from the amphitheater by calling (610) 488-1782, or writing to Pat Garrett Amphitheater, P.O. Box 84, Strausstown, PA 19559.

Ida's Notebook

by

Ida Risser

Some days are busier than others, and I have just had a busy one. After breakfast I trimmed grass around some flower beds as I had already weeded them.

Then I baked a large apple cake for the Bible Study group that was meeting at our house in the afternoon. Previously I had set the table with some nice plates and fancy glasses. The day before I purchased a gallon of iced tea and some "Sunny Delight" orange drink as the weather was hot.

As this day was also my husband's birthday, I made and iced a chocolate cake. An evening meal with guests was planned, but things did not turn out as planned. One family had sports events that evening, and I learned that another son was in Las Vegas for the week on business.

This day also happened to be the funeral of a relative. So we attended the morning service at a nearby chapel. The lady was 94 and a much loved Sunday school teacher for many, many years.

We had a quick lunch as the study group came at one o'clock. One member had just returned from a month in Australia and she told us of her travels. This was the last meeting of the season. Meetings like this in my home make me finish my spring cleaning in a hurry.

After a bit of relaxation with the newspaper, we had our evening meal and waited to have dessert with our son's family. After their barn work was finished, they came bearing gifts. Each of the three children had a gift behind their back or under a T-shirt. They were all practical gifts from the hardware store. One thought of a long-handled magnet, another a nozzle for a hose, and still another brought a rain gauge.

One pleasant interlude was a phone call from a reader of Lancaster Farming who lives in Geneva, New York. She was staying at a nearby bed and breakfast. It is nice to be remembered.

QUESTION — A reader has lots of old books including a set of Dicken's books from the 1800s. She wants to know if they have any value and where to sell them. She does not have a computer so do not send e-mail addresses.

QUESTION — Susan Lingeris wants information on hatching and raising all types of poultry. She and her husband also want a used brooder for sale that is in good shape. They also would like to purchase some fertile eggs in order to incubate eggs on a small scale. Write to the Lingeris at 2 Fats Hollow Rd., Galeton, PA 16922.

QUESTION — Winona Homko, Oxford, N.J., wants to purchase, by the case, a product called S&W Vintage Lites Oil Free Salad Dressing, distributed in San Ramon, Calif. She wants the fat-free dressing in the flavors of raspberry blush and white wine. Although it is being sold in some parts of the country by such stores as Shop 'N Bag and Thriftway-Clemens, Winona needs additional purchasing information.

QUESTION — Susan High recalls reading an article that appeared in this paper about a year ago regarding the history of Hershey Farms and Hershey chocolate. The article mentioned a contact person for anyone who had information concerning Hershey Farms or Hershey Chocolate. She wants the name and address. Dose anyone know to which article she is referring? If so, please send the information requested.

QUESTION — A Schuylkill County reader wants to know if anyone knows the value of an antique dress form from the early 1900s. It is a press-and-shape to the form you want to fit. Any idea of a fair price?

QUESTION — Ezra Gottschalk, 849 Martin Ave., Ephrata, PA 17522, is looking for someone who makes fish that hang on nylon cord from the ceiling. The fish are very attractive and move constantly in the air. Ezra would like to purchase five fish.

ANSWER — Anna Byler requested a children's book about kangaroos, in which the mother sings to her baby: "Sleep, Joey mine, cuddle close up to me." Thanks to several readers for sending information to her.

ANSWER — George Wojnar, Cream Ridge, NJ, was desperately searching for Ramapo tomato seeds. Thanks to Chris Knisely for writing that the company that grew Ramapo tomato seed found it to be such a small seller — despite it being a great tomato — that it quit producing the seed about three years ago. Ledden Seed Company in Sewell, N.J., was one of the major outlets from the time the variety was introduced by Rutgers, and the company has no reserve left. Chris said that he purchased seed sent away to Rutgers the second year that they were producing seed — about 1971 and grew nothing else from that time. He has yet to find an equally good tomato.

Thanks to Josh Ravier, Hellertown, for recommending Wojnar contact Totally Tomatoes, P.O. Box 1626, Augusta, GA 30903. The company offers hundreds of modern, antique, and specialty tomato and pepper seeds.

ANSWER — Evelyn Reinfeld, Halifax, wanted to know what causes rhubarb to grow into seed. She put plants out two years ago and last year they turned into seed pods. Thanks to K.K. for writing that seed stalks should be cut off as soon as they appear. The sooner in the growing season that the stalks are removed, the more the rhubarb stalks will flourish. Rhubarb plants are heavy eaters and tend to go to seed if the ground around it isn't heavily enriched with manure and compost.

Chris Knisely writes that rhubarb plants occasionally send up seed stalks because of the natural maturity of the plants. Some varieties of rhubarb such as Victoria (which has white or greenish-colored flowers) are more likely to flower than others. Flowering will reduce the vigor of the plant because energy is funneled into the stalks instead of new growth. If the plant is grown as an ornamental, the tall stalks of flowers is quite impressive. The flower and seed stalks should be cut out as soon as they start forming. The plant may still continue to produce flower stalks, so keep cutting. The plants do not become poisonous after flowering starts, but the leaves themselves are always poisonous.

ANSWER — Ada Zook wanted the words to the song "Git Along Little Doggie." Thanks to Chris Knisely for sending the following words to the song, "The Last Roundup," by Guy Lombardo.

I'm heading for the last roundup
Gonna saddle old Paint for the last time and ride
So long, old pal, it's time your tears were dried
I'm heading for the last roundup.
(Chorus): Git along little doggie, git along, git along. (Repeat line four times)
I'm heading for the last roundup
To the far away ranch of the Boss in the sky
Where the strays are counted and branded there go I
I'm heading for the last roundup.
(Chorus)
I'm heading for the last roundup
There'll be Buffalo Bill with his long, snow-white hair
There'll be old Kit Carson and Custer waiting there
A-riding in the last roundup.
(Chorus)

ANSWER — K.K. wrote that when she was a child, her grandmother Emily Sauerland Duvalois made the most wonderful marbled Easter eggs using regular tablets of egg coloring from a box and salad oil. The eggs were works of art and the one she remembers best was marbled predominately green with red, white, and yellow splashes. She wanted the directions for duplicating marbled eggs? Thanks to Chris Knisely for sending two different methods for marbleizing eggs.

Marbled eggs: In a mug or jar large enough to contain one egg, place one tablespoon oil, 1 tablespoon vinegar, and 1 tablespoon food coloring. Add enough water to cover egg, stir quickly with a spoon, and drop in hard-boiled egg. Pull egg out quickly and pat dry with paper towel.

Marbleized eggs: Lightly stir 1 tablespoon vegetable oil into a bowl of egg dye. Immediately dip egg into the liquid. Or stand egg in a small cup and slowly spoon the oil-water mixture over it. When the egg dries, repeat the steps with another color for an interesting color combination. Tip: For cleanup, wash all dipping containers in hot soapy water and rinse with vinegar to get rid of oil.

- New BaleTrak® Plus monitor/controller is the most advanced available; you can select twine or surface wrap, control bale formation, size, and wrapping. . . all with the touch of a button.

NOBODY DOES HAY BETTER

Complete hay control starts at the pickup. Hay is gathered and precompressed before it reaches the bale chamber . . . for more-solid bales. Gear- and shaft-driven knotters adjust to different twines and crops. Easy to service, too.

EPA Approves Use Of Cornell-Discovered Protein That Enables Plants To Resist Disease, Insects While Enhancing Growth

ITHACA, N.Y. — The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has granted conditional registration for the first commercial agricultural use of harpin, a Cornell University-discovered protein that induces a plant to mobilize its own defenses against pathogens and insects. The protein also enhances plant growth.

"Treating plants with the harpin protein signals the plant to turn on its natural defense systems," said Steven V. Beer, Cornell professor of plant pathology and one of the protein's discoverers in 1991. "The plant must be treated before the pathogen attacks, and it takes several days for the plant's system to mobilize its own defenses."

The protein combined with other ingredients will be sold under the name Messenger™ by Eden Bioscience Corp., Bothell, Wash., under license from the Cornell Research Foundation, which aids in the development of Cornell-discovered technology. Since entering into a licensing agreement in 1995, Eden has conducted over 500 field trials of the product on about 45 crops in four countries.

Curiously, the protein is derived from a plant pathogen, Erwinia amylovora, the bacterium responsible for fire blight, a scourge in Northeast fruit orchards since the 18th century. The bacterium attacks apple and pear trees and many ornamentals in the rose family, leaving blackened branches, trunks, leaves, flowers, and fruit.

While the bacterial blight is ruinous for plants, its protein derivative is quite the opposite. "In fact, the range of its beneficial effects is rather surprising," said Alan Collmer, Cornell professor of plant pathology and a co-developer of the protein.

Agricultural scientists had long sought the chemical basis of a defense response in plants called the hypersensitive reaction, which develops in the few cells in direct contact with an invading pathogen in the plant's intercellular spaces. By using a technique called molecular mutagenesis, Eva Steinberger (Cornell Ph.D., 1988) and David Bauer (Cornell Ph.D., 1990), two of Beer's graduate students, identified a number of hrp (pronounced "harp") genes of E. amylovora. These genes are involved both in fire blight infection and in the development of the hypersensitive response, essentially the suicide of plant cells attempting to thwart disease.

The protein product of a particular hrp gene is harpin, identified by researchers in Beer's laboratory. For example, when harpin is placed in a few of the intercellular spaces of tobacco, tomato or geranium leaves, the plant cells collapse and die within 24 hours, as if bacteria had been introduced. The collapsed plant cells immobilize the bacterial cells, preventing the spread of further infection.

The discovery of harpin was spearheaded by Zhongmin Wei, then a postdoctoral fellow and research associate in Beer's lab and now vice president for research at Eden Bioscience. Former Cornell researchers Ron Laby and Cathy Zumoff participated in identifying the harpin protein, together with Bauer and Sheng Yang He, who were researchers in Collmer's lab. Their findings were reported in a cover story in the journal Science (1992, Vol. 257, pp 85-88) titled "Harpin Elicitor of the Hypersensitive Response Produced By Plant Pathogen Erwinia Amylovora."

In addition to the hypersensitive response, the plant pathologists found that treating plants with harpin induced a second response called systemic acquired resistance, or SAR. This response provides protection against a broad range of pathogens. When Wei attempted to infect harpin-treated tobacco plants with bacterial or viral pathogens of tobacco, he found that the plants rejected the pathogens.

While SAR previously had been described in the scientific literature, the scientists were surprised that the harpin protein spurred systemic resistance with no adverse effects.

Researchers at Cornell and Eden then noticed the protein's third important attribute: Harpin-treated plants grew larger and faster than plants not treated with the protein, suggesting possibly higher yields and earlier maturity. These effects later were confirmed by Eden researchers in field tests in the Northwest, Florida, California, Mexico, and several states in the Southeast. Growers found that harpin accelerated ripening and improved yields on plants such as cotton, citrus, peppers, and tomatoes.

Finally, Thomas A. Zitter, Cornell professor of plant pathology, found the protein's fourth major attribute. While performing a field trial on pepper plants in 1996, he noted that the harpin-treated plants were less damaged by insects than control plants not treated with the protein. "That study alerted us to the possibility that harpin induces resistance to insects," said Beer.

'It's a really peculiar protein," Beer said. "When the isolated protein from the bacteria is applied to many sorts of plants, pathogen resistance develops and other beneficial effects occur, too."

NFU Reacts To Latest Budget Agreement

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The National Farmers Union (NFU) acknowledged House and Senate action to set aside $7.1 billion for income assistance initiatives for farmers and ranchers.

However, the organization cautioned that this level of assistance and the details of its allocation and distribution are inadequate to meet the ongoing economic crisis in agriculture.

"In this atmosphere of record low farm prices, another assistance package for agriculture is crucial," said NFU President Leland Swenson. "Still, we are concerned that this agreement provides assistance at a level lower than that of last year's package. It fails to identify funds for weather-related crop failures that we know will come to several regions of the country."

The agreement, which is the result of a compromise between the Republican House and Senate budget proposals, sets aside $5.5 billion for direct payments to be paid this year. NFU believes that this assistance is insufficient given the prospects for continued pressure on commodity prices and weather-related crop disasters in the Southern Plains and Midwest regions of the nation and a high probability of natural disasters elsewhere.

Additionally, NFU challenges the authorizing committees in Congress to implement policies that result in greater program equity for producers and more effective distribution of this assistance than has occurred in under the Freedom to Farm Act and as a result of two prior emergency packages. Assurances need to be made that aid will be provided in a timely fashion to farmers and ranchers according to need.

"The cumulative impact of extremely low commodity prices for the last three years is taking a heavy toll on rural America," said Swenson. "We are pleased Congress provided additional assistance in the budget, but I don't think it is enough to address the problems. I had hoped they would do better."

Board Members Attend State Beef Council Director Orientation

MIDDLETOWN (Dauphin Co.) — New board members of the Pennsylvania Beef Council took part in a State Beef Council Director Orientation Session at the National Cattlemen's Beef Association's (NCBA) Denver office April 19-20.

Veal grower Regina Bagley, Shunk; dairy producer Abraham Harpster, Spruce Creek; and David Lucas, a veal grower from Bernville, attended the session to learn about current checkoff-funded programs and initiatives.

Information provided at the session will help the board members represent and communicate with their state-level constituents. The board of the Pennsylvania Beef Council is responsible for directing and investing half of all beef checkoff dollars collected in Pennsylvania.

State beef councils may invest a portion of their 50 cents in national and international programs to extent national efforts; therefore, state directors need to know how their state dollars are being coordinated with national dollars to meet consumer needs.

"Directors have a responsibility to represent their state's views in national checkoff efforts, as well as to carry information back to their home state about programs," said Steve Smola, NCBA Federation of State Beef Councils division vice chair and host of the training session.

NCBA contracts on a nonprofit basis with the Cattlemen's Beef Board (CBB) to conduct producer-directed checkoff programs on behalf of the industry. "Part of our role is to facilitate the coordination off programs and dollars between the state and national levels. This is one reason we host the director orientation — to keep communication flowing and keep us all on the same page," said Smola.

The state directors heard program updates on all areas of national checkoff funding, including promotion, research, consumer information, industry information, foreign marketing, and producer communications. Directors were updated on the current checkoff-funded advertising campaign that is bringing the "Beef. It's What's for Dinner" convenience and nutrition message to beef's target audience-women ages 25-54.

The Benefits of a Rotary Hoe are More Than Just Breaking The Crust.

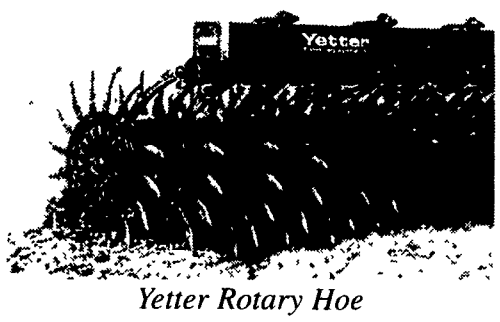
Yetter
Defining Solutions



Yetter Rotary Hoe

- Aggressively uproots weeds
- Incorporates herbicide
- Aerates soil before planting
- Follows soil contour
- Staggered arms allow residue flow
- Note: Individual arms can be raised to use as a cultivator.

Yetter Rotary Hoes allow you to keep ripping out weeds year after year with the same iron.

• Along with killing those yield-robbing weeds, you benefit by busting yield-limiting crusted soils Isn't it time you kicked the can and got the Hoe? Yetter Rotary Hoes, a guaranteed approach to environmentally-friendly weed control with the added benefits of time-saving speed and accuracy - year after year.

12 and 15 foot models tremendous discounts if you make your purchase now!

GOOD FINANCING/GOOD DISCOUNTS!
NEW CASE IH "SOYBEAN SPECIAL DRILLS" IN STOCK - SEE BINKLEY & HURST TODAY!

The Goal: Uniform Seed Distribution

If you want precision seeding, you need a new Case IH 5300 Series Grain Drill from Binkley & Hurst Bros No matter if you plant small grain or soybeans!

The Game Plan: Case IH 5300 Grain Drill

Designed for precision planting in solid or extra-narrow row patterns to maximize yields

- Exclusive diagonal-lipped fluted-roll seed cups ensure uniform seed distribution
- Close-coupled maneuverability
- Large-capacity seed hopper to cover extra acres between refills

A Special Feature For All Case IH Grain Drills
Fluted Roll Feed Cup Assemblies Save Seed and Save Time
A known fact that Case IH die-cast zinc alloy feed cups are superior to other competitive brands Long life comes from oil-impregnated, molded sintered metal insters act as a positive bearing surface to surround and support the fluted roll

Large throat clearance allows the handling of big seeds and prevents seed damage

Fluted roll is precision-molded and won't freeze up during the idle periods

Shut-off block is molded of steel and delivers consistent cup to cup seeding accuracy Exclusive tapered metered edge at the bottom of the feed cup provides unexcelled seeding accuracy, even seed flow, and more uniform spacing

For replacement parts for your existing drill, buy Case IH quality from our Parts Dept. Now! Precision engineered to fit your grain drill exactly!
And you get more than a precision grain drill You can count on us for genuine, value-priced parts, professional and reliable service support, and flexible financing

CASE IH PRODUCT SUPPORT COMMITTED TO EVERY PART

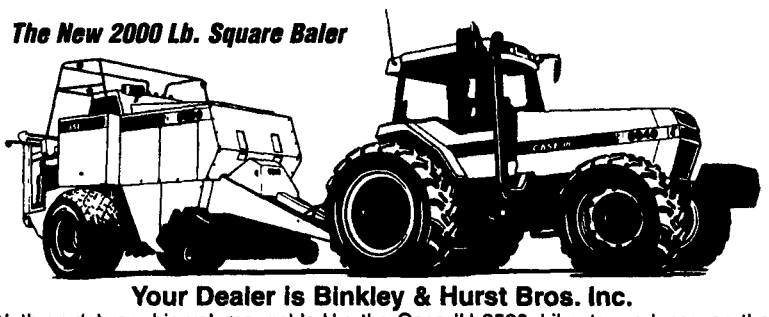
CASE IH Model 8590. Get More From Your Baler. A Lot More.

The New 2000 Lb. Square Baler



Your Dealer is Binkley & Hurst Bros. Inc.
Nothing delivers big-volume yields like the Case IH 8590. Like its predecessor, the 8580, this new large square baler is designed just for large hay producers. But the 8590 also features over a dozen improvements for greater reliability. And that translates into even higher productivity in the field. So stop by today. And see how the 8590 can help you get a lot more from your baling operation.

COMPACT LOADERS
- Stabile
- Powerful
- Easy access
- High payloads
- Profitable applications

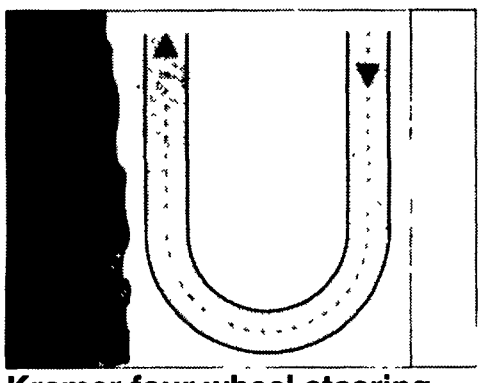
Conventional steering (articulated)



Kramer four wheel steering
When it comes to manoeuvrability, Kramer four wheel steering is the choice to make. Even the tightest corners are accessed, and making distances shorter saves time and money. Kramer four wheel steering is well-designed for precise and safe working. In high-speed version, the drive train automatically switches to front axle steering for long-haul travel.

Why wait for the sun

Speed up drying time with a New Holland tedder. It lifts down crop up so air flows through it. Choose from three tedders – 8'6" Model 157, 16'5" Model 163, or 22'8" Model 169.

Stop in. We'd like to show you how our tedders can help you put up quality hay.

The "570" New Holland square baler brings together performance, reliability and capacity.

- Rotary feeding system adds consistency and bale quality.
- Fast plunger stroke – 93 SPM. A Cat. 6 drive-line and increased slip clutch setting add capacity.
- Wide Super-Sweep™ pickup. 65" wide to get those big scattered windrows.
- Strong materials in bale case and plunger.
- Gear-driven tying mechanisms – wire or twine.

Ask for a demonstration of the New Holland "570" baler... the best-in-class square baler.

GEHL®

Economy Priced Round Baler

New! Get the advantages of a Gehl total density control baler in a new low priced package.

- Total density control lets you custom-build bales
- Bales are 45 inches wide, up to 60 inches in diameter and up to 1,000 pounds
- 56-inch wide 4-bar hay pickup
- Power infeed system
- Double arm twine mechanism

since 1859
GEHL the name means quality

PROVEN PERFORMER

Scavenger® Spreader

Gehl's Scavenger® Spreader delivers the performance you need year after year, with increased durability and outstanding application control. All thanks to the following features.

- Heavy-duty round core auger with segmented paddles to blend manure. Powered both up and down to ram through heavy loads and break up bridging.
- Special "V" tank design to handle solid, heavy bedded, semi-solid, self-leveling and liquid manure.
- Adjustable auger and expeller speeds spread more types of manure.
- Variflow™ discharge featuring square-tooth expeller paddles for smooth,even spreading at the rate you choose.
- Improved drive system with heavier final drive chains and enhanced idler system.

Kubota

If it Sounds Too Good to be True, it Probably is...

...a Kubota!

Kubota's technologically advanced deluxe cab available on the M8200 (73 PTO HP) and M9000 (80 PTO HP) – and now available on the M4900 (45 PTO HP), M5700 (52 PTO HP) and M6800 (62 PTO HP) – delivers ergonomic comfort while keeping noise out and music in. A factory cab for all seasons, the unique dual-level air conditioning system proportionally mixes cooler air for the upper body and warmer air for the lower cab keeping your body comfortable from head to toe year round.

A cloth seat with reclining back and adjustable suspension armrests, tilt steering wheel, ISO mounted full flat deck, large overall glass area, side opening windows, optional radio cassette player and a host of operator features are built right in.

If working in comfort sounds good to you, see us today.

BECAUSE YOUR DAY DOESN'T START AT 9:00 AM...

WE HAVE HAY TEDDERS IN STOCK!

OURS DOESN'T EITHER

When you work the land, you don't have the luxury of working 9 to 5. You need to be available all day, every day...and if your equipment breaks down, you need it fixed now, not tomorrow at 3:00.

Deer Creek understands the way you work. That's why we're here when you need us with parts and service 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Where you buy a product is often as important as what you buy!

Put us to the test! Service when you need it.

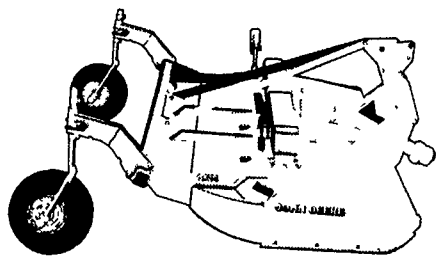
NEW JOHN DEERE ROTARY CUTTERS



- Double-decker design is twice as strong as cutters with a single deck.
- The top deck is domed. Water and grass roll off, preventing water buildup and rust.
- The clean bottom deck promotes better airflow for better cutting/distribution.
- Available in 5- to 14-foot cutting widths, for mid- and heavy-duty applications.

TWICE AS STRONG – Units In Stock 4' to 20'

ATTENTION SOYBEAN GROWERS:

The facts about herbicides and

Roundup Ready® SOYBEANS

Many chemical companies are spending huge amounts of money trying to convince you to spend up to $20/acre on unnecessary residuals or tank mixes for Roundup Ready Soybeans. Please ask yourself why....

The facts about Roundup Ultra alone:

- it kills more weeds, more effectively
- Roundup Ultra kills perennials
- it doesn't restrict your crop rotations
- it doesn't stunt or burn your beans
- it saves you money!!!

Roundup ULTRA®

Why are some companies desperately trying to sell you chemicals you don't need?

It's all you need. Why spend more?

Recommendations for Using Roundup Ultra in Roundup Ready® Soybeans

Roundup TVP REWARDS MONSANTO

1. Start clean!

- ALWAYS use a burndown in full season soybeans.
- In double crop, burndown if needed.

2. Plant in as narrow a row as possible.

- The faster the crop canopy the better!

3. Apply 1 quart/acre Roundup Ultra as close to crop canopy closure as is practical.

- Weeds are usually 4-8" tall and it is 3-5 weeks after planting.
- If weeds are greater than 8", use 1-5 qts.
- Use 1.5-2 qts/A for perennial weeds.
- Apply a second application of Roundup Ultra if needed for later germinating weeds.

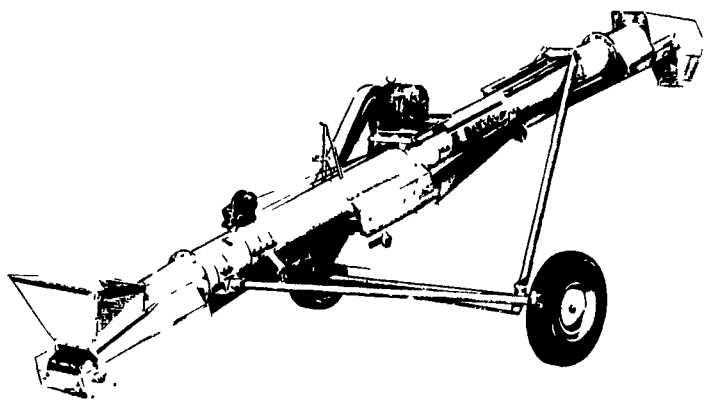
10-Inch BeltVeyor From CrustBuster/Speed King



DODGE CITY, Kan. — The 10-inch BeltVeyor successfully solves the majority of bulk material handling problems associated on the farm.

Completely portable and easily maneuvered into place, the 10-inch BeltVeyor carries the material on a 12-inch belt of stretch-resistant PVC with versatile Chevron cover design.

The conveyor is available in standard lengths from 20 feet to 60 feet with horizontal take-up assembly that offers approximately 210 degree belt wrap and driven with either an electric motor or PTO. Field reports less cracking or breaking when handling grains.

All models are available with stainless steel tube or corrosive materials. Accessories include enclosed discharge spout, 90-degree spindle, adjustable deflector, and double tail casters.

Case IH Names Irwin To Key Post

RACINE, Wis. — James L. Irwin has been appointed vice president of the North American Case IH Agricultural Business.

In his new post, Irwin will oversee all activities related to the North American Case IH agricultural business, including marketing, sales, product support, the Case IH dealer network, and communications.

He has counterparts in western and central Europe, the Confederation of Independent States and central Asia, Australia and New Zealand, Latin America, and eastern Europe, Africa, and Asia. He will report to the worldwide Case IH head.

Irwin previously served as vice president, North American agricultural equipment sales for Case Corporation. The North American Case IH Agricultural Business is part of CNH Global, the company formed late last year from the merger of Case Corporation and New Holland.

The merger offers great opportunity, Irwin emphasizes. "Our long-term strategy of developing common platforms with differentiated features stands to greatly benefit Case IH, New Holland, and most importantly, our dealers and customers," he said.

Irwin's ties with the ag equipment industry go back to 1964, when he started his career in retail and wholesale sales management at International Harvester. Two decades later, when Case joined with International Harvester in 1985, he became manager for eastern region-

James L. Irwin

North American agricultural equipment sales for the new company. In 1991, Irwin was promoted to director of the eastern region, and in 1992 was named region manager, Midwest sales region.

Irwin also served as general manager, North American sales operations, before being named vice president, North American agricultural equipment sales, in 1996.

He has a bachelor's degree in business education from the University of Nebraska at Kearney, where he was a football All-American in 1963. He played professional and semi-pro football the next year. In 1999, he was inducted into the university's athletic hall of fame.

Morningstar Marketplace Opens

THOMASVILLE (York Co.) — Morningstar Marketplace — a farm, flea, antique, and auction market — opened its doors in July 1999 and celebrated with a grand opening last August.

According to Morningstar, this is the first new farmer's market built in central Pennsylvania in approximately 30 years. The new complex is located in Thomasville on Rt. 30, seven miles west of York and approximately 20 miles east of Gettysburg. There is a total of 29 acres with parking for more than 850 vehicles.

The two farm buildings are home to 125 vendors, offering farm-fresh produce, meats, seafood, dairy, baked goods, and several restaurant vendors serving a variety of prepared foods. The market has several clothes, jewelry, arts and crafts, and collectable items. Fresh-cut flowers, bedding plants, and a variety of herbs and spices can be found throughout the complex. All indoor space is air conditioned and heated.

In addition, the market offers a courtyard and porch area for vendors that prefer to be outside but out of the sun or rain. All markets are open Saturday from 8 a.m.-4 p.m. and Sunday from 7 a.m.-3 p.m. Between 100-200 flea vendors offer treasures of old and new. An outdoor space can be rented for only $10 a day or spaces can be reserved from month-to-month by prepaying $40 at the beginning of each month.

Morningstar Marketplace recently started public auctions. A couple times each month, auctioneer Butch Landis conducts outside auctions, selling items that have been delivered from all corners of York County. Residents desiring to sell but unable to get items here can call to make arrangements for pickup.

Owner of Morningstar Marketplace, Andrew W. Lentz, has plans for a multi-arena auction house in the near future. Recent growth at the market includes construction of a produce building, making it easier for produce vendors to load, unload, and display farm-fresh vegetables and fruits.

Beginning May 24, Morningstar Marketplace will conduct a hay and straw auction, starting at 5 p.m. in the porch and courtyard area. Prepared foods will be available for purchase to hungry buyers and sellers.

The marketplace's antique gallery is set up for co-op dealers. The market has only about half of the finished showcases installed, but more will be coming soon. Showcases measuring 6 feet high by 4 feet wide by 2 feet deep can be rented for a minimal $45 a month. Floor space is available in 8.5 feet by 10 feet or 8 foot by 10 foot sizes on a month-to-month basis. Items in the antique gallery change from week to week as vendors are constantly bringing in new treasures and rearranging their items.

The farm market has reserved a booth to be used by nonprofit organizations throughout the area. Organizations can call to reserve weekend use of the booth in order to promote their purpose, hand out literature, or sell certain items that help support their cause. The new complex is fully equipped and approved for handicap access, with ample parking and restroom facilities.

A few tour busses are finding their way to the new market. To aid in the drivers' and tour guides' comfort, the market has completed a service room as a combined education room/bus drivers lounge. In the near future this room will have cable TV as well as couches and chairs for relaxation as the passengers browse and shop. Coupon books, for tour bus visitors, are being designed and printed, offering discounts and free items.

The market's hope is to sponsor nonprofit organizations with monthly events. A Strawberry Festival is scheduled Saturday, June 10. This event will host a pie-eating contest, bake-off contest, scavenger hunt through the market, sack races, face painting, and a special magician. The market's first event last October was Safe Trick-Or-Treating. The Lehman Center of York received proceeds from the event as well as donated items from vendors and customers for their wish list.

The education room is free of charge. On occasion, vendors utilize the room to give demonstrations on their product. The room is also available to local agencies that would like to conduct small meetings. The York County Chamber of Commerce Agriculture Business Committee used the room to hold meetings, as did the convention and visitors bureau. If local schools are interested in bringing weekend field trips to the market, arrangements can be made for educational instruction from local agricultural agencies.

Morningstar Marketplace was a dream of Andy Lentz for many years. Lentz is a Spring Grove area resident from birth. With the help of family and friends, as well as several local construction-related businesses, his dream became reality, but not without much planning, organization, and dedication.

The market recently conduceted a customer survey with a $100 giveaway to help determine what shoppers liked and disliked and what product they would like to see and purchase at market. One local establishment, part of the market since the start, will be opening their space for the first time within the next couple weeks. Sonnewald Natural Foods of Spring Grove hired a local painter, Dan Hendrix, to create an inside mural. Doctors or practitioners informing the public of alternative medicine and practices will operate the stand.

Barenbrug Northeast Completes Renovations

OGDENSBURG, N.J. — The remodeling of Barenbrug Northeast's 35,000-square foot facility in Ogdensburg has been completed, according to Michael F. Mulder, vice president and general manager.

The upgrade includes renovations on the facility to become customer friendly and to allow for timely training and continuing education for both dealers and distributors of Barenbrug's 300 varieties of grass seed produced in Barenbrug's own fields worldwide.

Professional users (superintendents, municipal field managers, farmers, etc.) will now be able to view videos in the Ogdensburg facility on the latest improvements in forage and turf grasses.

Barenbrug Northeast maintains three product lines at its three-acre site in Ogdensburg, New Jersey and employs approximately 25 associates in its office on Main Street (Rt. 517). About ten additional associates joined the company, during its busy season, in its warehousing, packaging, and distribution areas.

According to Mulder, Barenbrug is constantly seeking agronomists, cognizant in the soil/fertilizer arenas, and invites applications and resumes from technically-oriented candidates to expand the firm's global operations.

Funding Secured For Development Plan

EXTON (Chester Co.) — An in-depth study of agriculture in Chester County will begin as a result of a $40,000 grant secured by Pennsylvania Senator James Gerlach.

"Agriculture is Chester County's largest segment of the county's business and industry community. Farming is a business without walls in our county and not just open space," said Gary W. Smith, executive director of the Chester County Development Council.

"A great need exists to gather information and data to help our agricultural farming businesses grow and prosper. The study will also serve planning efforts well into the 21st century and prepare an action agenda to provide agricultural economic development services to the farming industry in our county. We must help them to compete in the global economy."

The Development Council received the Community Revitalization Grant from the state Department of Commerce and Economic Development. The project is slated to take nine months to complete on focus on the problems encountered by county farmers and the "business of farming."

"Agriculture is vital to the well-being of not only Chester County, but the whole commonwealth of Pennsylvania," Gerlach, R-44th of Chester County, said. "This worthwhile project will benefit all of the citizens of the county and of Pennsylvania."

The information will be used by the Chester County Agriculture Development Council, the county planning commission, and other interested agencies to generate an agriculture development plan for the county.

More than 36 percent of Chester County's total acreage is in active farming, more than 176,000 acres, and there are approximately 1,500 farms, including 330 commercial dairy farms.

The objective of the study is to gain data on the types and extent of farming, status and future of agricultural easements, the needs of farmers to upgrade technical skills, how to replace retiring farmers, the pressures to sell farms to developers, factors that depreciate the profitability of farming, the role of municipalities and the county in sustaining agriculture, processes that enhance farm succession, and ways to encourage young people to enter farming.

New DNA Test Tells If An Animal Will Yield Tough Or Tender Beef

WOOSTER, Ohio — Order filet mignon, prime rib or even a strip steak at a restaurant and the waiter or waitress predictably asks, "How is your steak?"

Unfortunately for the beef industry, the answer may vary from tender to tough. But that's about to change.

Two scientists at the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center have found a genetic marker for potential tenderness in beef cattle. The technology may hold the key to elimination of most tough beef from the marketplace within 10 years — as long as animals with this potential are managed correctly. The researchers must now study the heritability of the marker genes.

Francis Fluharty, feedlot nutritionist, and Daral Jackwood, molecular biologist, have developed a DNA test to determine genetic potential of beef cattle. With funding from the Certified Angus Beef Program, Fluharty and Jackwood have designed a method that identifies tenderness and marbling potential of cattle and aims to prevent variations in the quality of beef products. After four years of studies, the test has proven to be more than 99 percent accurate. A U.S. patent application has been filed to protect their find.

"Quality differences in beef can't always be corrected with dietary adjustments," Fluharty said. "Some cattle simply have the potential to produce high-qaulity, tender beef and others do not."

The new test will determine a beef animal's potential for high marbling or very little marbling at an estimated cost of less than $10 per head — and it may save producers $40-$50 per head in feed costs.

For example, total feed and yardage costs can amount to $1.85 per head per day, or $43.50 per month. If cattle don't hit their target weight in a set amount of time, money spent to feed the animal is wasted. The DNA test will help producers prevent this from happening.

"Producers will be able to collect a blood sample when convenient — at birth, branding or weaning — and mail it to the laboratory for sorting," Fluharty said. "The test results will provide information necessary to pen and feed calves according to their known carcass potential."

Many beef producers cannot get carcass information on their cattle, Fluharty said.

Ultrasound can forecast the future, but it can't go back to the calf and predict marbling and tenderness potential. With this technology, beef producers will be able to manage cattle in outcome groups — according to their potential for tenderness, marbling and growth.

"If a bull had all the indications of potential for both tenderness and marbling ability, he would be worth more than bull with only some of that potential," Fluharty said. "Widespread use of this technology could eliminate non-tender genetics over a 10-year period, because no registered breeder would sell cattle that flunk the test for tenderness potential."

The researchers will conduct additional field trials over the next one to two years with support from the American Angus Association and the Certified Angus Beef Program. Soon after, the technology should be available to beef producers everywhere.

"We recognize there is still a lot of research to be done," said Jim Riemann, executive director of the Certified Angus Beef Program, "but we're excited about the potential for applying this new DNA technology. Consumers want high-quality products and are willing to pay for them. The technology should help with identification of beef that meets CAB standards. Currently the demand is greater than the supply."

The next step for researchers is to predict the heritability of DNA-marker traits.

Ron Bolze, director of progeny tests for carcass merit at the CAB Program, will assist Ohio State researchers with field trial coordination.

Fluharty said because OARDC is part of Ohio State, the university will own the rights to the patent on carcass-predicting technology, and the Certified Angus Beef Program plans to license the test.

"This technology will result in huge changes," Fluharty said. "We won't be in a commodity industry any more. A commercially available test for tenderness and marbling potential would have profound effects across the beef cattle industry. For the first time, producers would be able to market animals that would consistently meet consumer satisfaction."

And consumers would have the luxury of stopping at the meat case and choosing any cut of beef — knowing that it's tender, juicy, and delicious.

Grazing Meeting, Pasture Walk May 31

SHIPPENVILLE (Clarion Co.) — The Clarion County Extension Office announces a grazing meeting and pasture walk Wednesday, May 31 at 7 p.m. at the Larry and Angel Stone farm located near Rimersburg.

The Stones have no-tilled some cropland and pastures in the past two years, as well as adding more fencing to their operation to accommodate a rotational pasture system for the mixed dairy herd. They graze the cattle on a pasture system of mixed grasses and legumes. The Stones are planning on adding more pastures to their rotational system as time permits.

The meeting will also include information on a pasture research project that the Stones will be cooperating in with Penn State on dry matter intake and pasture growth.

The public is invited to join the Stones on May 31 as they show the improvements they have made to the farm to improve pasture quality. The farm is located near Rimersburg. Take Rt. 68 west from Rimersburg to the New Athens Church. Turn right onto S.R. 3004 and go approximately 3.6 miles through Kissinger Mills to the Stones' farm. Signs will be posted. This event will be held rain or shine, so prepare for inclement weather if necessary.

For more information, contact the Clarion County extension office, phone (814) 782-0033, or e-mail CLARIONEXT @PSU.EDU.

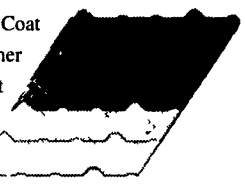
Everlast Roofing, Inc.
Metal Roofing & Siding

The Ultimate G-100 Process
"The Best"

1. Valspar 10S Finish Coat
2. Epoxy Primer
3. Zinc Phosphate Pretreatment
4. G-100 Zinc Coating
5. Full Hard Steel (80,000 min yield)
6. Heat formed, less paint cracks
7. % Cover Width



Everlast II

NOTE! It is more important what is under the paint than what you see on top!

1 One of the best paints, superior acid rain, cracking resistance and color retention
2 Primer coat promotes outstanding top coat adhesion
3. Zinc phosphate pretreatment This is a very important process - if your current supplier cannot supply you with this or does not know, you should reconsider
4. G-100 Galvanized. Most metal roofing has approx. 40% less galvanized under the paint G-100 is more galvanized than most unpainted panels
5 Full Hard Anything less than full hard will bend easier, lower snow loads, etc
6 Heat formed Metal is painted before ribs are formed Most paint cracks at bends, heat forming greatly reduces cracks (check metal siding that is installed for 5-10 years)
7. Stronger design, superior strength, more metal per L.F
8. Add Everything Together And Price Should Be $53 37 Per Square $1.69 Per L.F.

OUR SPECIAL PRICE ONLY
$46.74 PER SQUARE

BEEF TIPS
My Experience

"We weaned several Simmental steers in 1999—born in April, weaned in late November—two weighed over 900 pounds! One born in July weighed 682 pounds by January 12, 2000. That's with just grass—no grain at all! Yearlings should weigh 1250 to 1300 pounds, so they can go to market at one year of age."

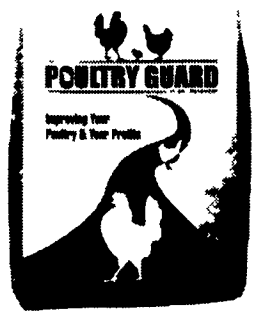
POULTRY GUARD™
LITTER AMENDMENT

New Poultry Guard™ Litter Amendment is a unique activated clay that delivers consistent ammonia control without the handling inconvenience associated with other poultry litter treatments.

Unlike these other treatments, Poultry Guard Litter Amendment is easy and convenient to apply and needs no incorporation or activation. Fewer application variables mean more consistent performance. In addition, Poultry Guard can be applied up to five days before bird set, whenever it's convenient for the grower.



Using Poultry Guard Litter Amendment Is As Simple As...

Apply
Simply spread over poultry litter.
- No incorporation
- No moisture activation
- No complicated instructions for heating and ventilation in conjunction with application

Bird Set
Poultry Guard can be applied when it's most convenient, up to five days before bird set.
- No application timing headaches between clean out and bird set
- No last minute application after equipment has been lowered

Control Ammonia
Poultry Guard will deliver immediate and long-term ammonia control and give birds a healthier growing environment.
- No more dangerously high levels of ammonia to stunt growth

You be the judge! We are confident this litter amendment will improve your poultry and your profits.
